EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE President spends his time in writing veto messages.

THERE is no doubt that the president will sign the Fitz John Porter vindication bill.

"COLUMBIA, the gem of the ocean" won the boat race with the University of Pennsylvania.

THE Lake Shore Railroad is an important route from east to west and the switchmen strike on that line retarded trade.

A NOTED runner in the West performed his greatest pedestrian feat the other day by running off with a beautiful young lady.

THE refusal of the owners of the Nanticoke mines to search for and recover the bodies of the buried miners seems heartless, to say the least.

THE announcement that Blaine is to deliver another speech causes the Democrats to shudder while the British lion is heard to utter a feeble roar.

THERE are two hundred people in Phiiadelphia who never eat meat. They had a picnic the other day and consumed immense quantities of fruit and pie.

IT was an unfortunate action for the Republic of France to exile the royalist family. They will work more harm in exile than they possibly could as citizens of the Republic.

DAKOTA is like a bad boy who will have his own way or he wont play at all. The citizens of that Territory say it must be a State or they will make trouble. Does the Union run Dakato, or Dakota the Union?

ONE day last week the announcement came over the wires that P. T. Barnum, the great showman, was dead. Next day, however, he telegraphed that he was just as full of life as he had ever been. He will continue to own and manage the biggest show on earth.

A MAN who went in to a Montana newspaper office to thrash the editor found that an undertaking of that kind was exceedingly difficult. Instead of accomplishing his object he had the life nearly crushed out of him by being sat down upon by the two hundred and fifty pounds editor.

THE report is that Secretary Manning's health has sufficiently recovered to allow the determination on his part to try to hold on to the Treasury Department a while longer. The pleasures of power and turning out offensive partisans are not to be laid aside on the warning of a single sick spell.

JUDGE WHITE, of Indiana county, seems determined to make Prohibition prohibit, if such a thing is possible. He has instructed the county constables to return all persons they see or hear of drinking liquor or beer on the highway or out-of-way places, as nuisances. Indiana county citizens wishing to sample a flask will now scan the horizon for constables before proceeding.

ASTRONOMERS told us we could look for a brilliant comet in June. They were mistaken, however, and probably only caught a glimpes of Chas. S. Wolf, that political comet flitting over the political sky with his prohibition tail behind him, and mistook him for one of those brilliant celestial visitors which suddenly flash in the sky and as suddenly go out in impenetrable darkness. The two are so much alike that a mistake might easily be made.

THE death of ex-Judge David Davis ends the career of a man who occupied at one time a position of peculiar influence in the politics of this country. In the Senate he constituted in himself a sort of third party, and while his attitude was exceptional he did nothing out of keeping with his principles, and made in the main an admirable Senator. To the bench he was an ornament, and was distinguished for his ability and fairness. In private life Judge Davis was admired for many virtues and great worth. Neither will it be forgotten that he was a trusted friend of Abraham Lincoln and deserved the regard of that statesman and martyr

Vetoes.

President Cleveland has vetoed more than seventy bills since he became chief executive. He has exercised the veto power to a greater extent than any one of his predecessors. Grant, Lincoln, Garfield and the other eminently wise presidents did not presume to arrogate to themselves the power which this "innocuous desuetude" of a chief executive has taken upon himself. But they did not know so well what was good for the country. Cleveland is an individual of so much more extended experience than any who preceeded him that the reason for his action is sufficiently explained.

It may seem somewhat peculiar that the President has vetoed so many pension bills, among them many of undoubted merit. That of the widow of Gen. David Hunter is one. He was a veteran of the Mexican war as well as the war of the rebellion, and served his country in the regular army for over half a century. Last spring he died of old age, and the President, as Commander-in-Chief of the army, issued a proclamation in General Orders, pronouncing a eulogy upon his gallantry, and invoking the gratitude of the country for his eminent services. The bill to grant his widow a pension of $50 a month passed both Houses without an objection, but the President vetoed it and many others of almost an equally deserving kind.

We say it with no idea of especially pleasing the soldiers, but because we believe it, that every man who fought for his country should receive a pension. A man who is rich and has enough money for the use of himself and his family should not ask to be pensioned, but that anyone who fought, bled and suffered for his country should ever want while the coffers of the Nation are full is a thought not for a moment to be earnestly considered.

Therefore, we are decidedly of opinion that the President exceeded his discreet use of the veto power, and we hope some of these bills will be passed over his negative. To veto a few of the less meritorious bills would be excusable, but to veto so many is outrageous, and comes with exceedingly bad grace from one who did not go into the jaws of death to do battle for liberty.

Congressional.

Of all the Democratic candidates for Congress yet mentioned in this district, Dr. Potter of Clearfield county, undeniably has the lead. He would have been a candidate two years ago had he not withdrawn for the sake of harmony. Perhaps that is the reason his candidacy now meets with so much favor.

Ex-Senator Peale seems to strike the popular heart only in his own county—Clinton. We have no doubt that he will have the support of that county. While, in many respects, Hon. A. G. Curtin has elements of strength, yet there is much opposition to him even here in his own home. One would imagine that the Centre county delegation would be given him as a matter of course, but that is by no means certain. The newspaper which used to support him most enthusiastically, now opposes him violently, and we do not believe that journal will support him under any circumstances. The other Democratic paper in this town does not favor him to any greater extent than courtesy to a representative requires. The other day the gentleman who has more influence than any other one man in Democratic politics of this county discussed the situation and said that Mr. Curtin must ask for the support of this county before it is given him.

Dr. Potter, however, seems the most popular man among them. Papers of all shades and no shade of politics say a good word for him. It is said that he has, on one or two previous occasions, surrendered his claims to political preferment for the benefit of his party. This perhaps accounts for the general enthusiasm with which the announcement of his name is received.

But our own individual opinion is that this will be an excellent year for the Republican candidate from this district and we see no reason why one should not be named and elected. In Bellefonte there is Edmund Blanchard, Esq., or Hon. John B. Linn; and James P. Coburn, Esq., of Coburn, is also an acceptable candidate. If a choice is looked for outside the county, we know of no one more suitable than Thomas Murray, Esq., of Clearfield. If Clinton county desires to furnish a Republican candidate, why should she not select Jno. Bannister Gibson Kinsloe, who has labored long and successfully for the party without claiming reward; who is at once an agreeable citizen and a Christian gentleman?

Available Republican candidates are legion.

The President's Bride.

The President has married a perfect jewel of a wife, just the sort of a lady to adorn the position. How such a really admirable woman happened to bestow her hand on such a queer specimen of the genus home as the President is surprising. But she did it, and the President is to be congratulated. All we read of the President's lady leads us to admire her as much as all we read of the President himself leads us to an opposite sentiment. We predict that from now on the Administration will improve and it will be the President's better half who will work the desirable change.

The President is stiff, formal and friged; she is yielding, informal and sociable. His appearance is repellant, her's is attractive. He refuses to talk, she will converse engagingly and artlessly all day and then not reveal any state secrets. He seems to consider his position at the head of the nation as one of stern duty, without its attendant pleasures; she enjoys her position, loves to meet people and shake their hands and smile on them. The President sighs for a change in the condition of affairs, while she is pleased with things as they are and does not believe that a change will improve the dear old White House. His mind is not an educated one, and when he does express an idea it reveals an immense wilderness of "innocuous desuetude"; she is original and full of ideas which she expresses fluently and well.

So we might continue, as the distinction is marked in their every movement. We advise all misanthopic, gloomy bachelors like the President was to seek out just such a jewel of a woman for a wife. She will wake him up and make his prosy, gloomy life to vegetate, bud and blossom as the June rose.

Exchange Echoes.

Mr. Randall's promise that both wings of the Democratic party will flop in unison after a while, must have reference to the next election. The rock-ribbed unterrified have a political faculty of coming up to the polls and voting the straight ticket at each election, and spending the intermediate time in quarreling over what they meant to vote for.

Mr. Wolfe boasts loudly of his "independence," but we have yet to hear of the first independent movement which he has either started or participated in that he did not intend to benefit the Democratic party.

It beats all creation how many girls are being poisoned this Summer by eating ice cream. The young man who offers ice cream to a girl is as much to be suspected nowadays as the one who doesn't.

Representative Le Fevre, of Ohio, says a congressman cannot live on his salary, pay his expenses and be honest. Now, in view of the fact that nearly all congressmen live on their salaries and pay their expenses, what construction must we place upon Colonel Le Fevre's able remark?

Of all the seasonable pastimes, that of bicycle riding has always been considered among the most invigorating and healthful. But now a prominent physician says that, like roller skating, it produces a new disease, an affection of the spine and kidneys, resulting from the continual jar of the machine.

Randall's Tariff.

The Centre Democrat, last week, criticised Mr. Randall for not offering a tariff bill to take the place of the one which he assisted to defeat. In reality, however, Mr. Randall did at once bring forward the best tariff bill which has been talked of during the present session of Congress. While we are opposed to any and all tariff legislation except that which will increase the duty on goods manufactured or produced in this country, yet we must concede that it comes nearest to good tariff legislation of any the bills to which we have given particular notice. But there is no probability that the bill in question will be considered this year. The Democrats are too much incensed to favor anything that emanates from Randall and the Republicans are opposed to all tariff legislation.

THOSE able Democratic statesmen and editors who try to make it appear that the passage of the Fitz John Porter bill was a party victory should proceed cautiously. They may be friends of General Porter, but they are fool friends who will serve his cause best by keeping quiet.

Oleomargarine.

Any measure which will serve to distinguish the execrable compound known as oleomargarine from pure butter and render its production difficult or impossible will meet with the thanks of people who are at all careful about what they eat and also of all farmers who make and sell real butter. The bill recently dicussed in congress seems to accomplish this object to a certain extent and we regret that it has not become a law. The representative who failed to vote for it, in that respect, misrepresented the larger and better element of his constitnents. The bill was, we believe, in the nature of a tax on the manufacture or sale of spurious butter, and would have served the double purpose of providing an additional source of revenue and of discouraging a trade which injures legitimate farming.

We know not what dangers lurk in the use of these various compounds offered as substitutes for butter. They surely are not as nourishing and healthful as butter and can be prepared in such attractive shape as to deceive those who may be gathered at a table where butter is expected to be one of the parts of the meal. To partake of any such false preparation is revolting to the sensibilities of some people, and we say, away with it!

MR. HEWITT is being overwhelmed with telegrams from leading Democrats of New York, warning him that the tariff agitation must be stopped at once or the unity of the Democratic party will be destroyed. This is an anomalous condition of things, inasmuch as New York has always been the hotbed and nursery of free trade. But the leaders at last perceive that public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of the protection of home as against foreign industries, and that while the Democratic majority in the House has been working hard to produce political capital for themselves in the ensuing campaigns, they have really been furnishing the Republicans with the most effective ammunition. All former blunders of a party famous for its faux pas, pale into insignificance alongside that just abandoned, by which pension legislation was to be loaded down with tax amendments and made so odious that it would stand no chance of adoption. It is the twin of Morrison's reform scheme, and with these two the Republicans are willing to go to the country in the campaign of 1888; but that's just what sensible Democrats do not want, hence the raid on Hewitt to have Morrison choked off.

MR. GLADSTONE has done a good many shrewd things since this Home Rule canvass in England began, but he never was shrewder than in naming Lord Rosebery as his successor to the leadership of Liberal politics. It has been said by the Conservatives in Great Britain that the Home-Rule cause was borne up entirely by Mr. Gladstone's personality; that if he should die the whole policy must fail for lack of a leader. But the Premier says no; and points to Rosebery as his successor. The wisdom of his selection cannot be questioned, and the English and Scotch public will be quick to admit it. But with what wrath must Chamberlain and Hartington have learned of the Premier's declaration.

IT is estimated by competent authority that the new tax law will increase the revenues of the state in the neighborhood of a million dollars, and the disproportion of the receipts to the necessary expenditures for state purposes has suggested the matter of making such changes in the law as will make the two more nearly equal. One of the plans proposed is to divert the present tavern, eating house, brewers', bottlers' and wholesale liquor licenses into the treasuries of the respective counties in which they are collected, and, if this is not sufficient, to divert the mercantile licenses into the same channel.

FRANK HURD, the great Toledo Free Trader, wants the Democratic party to repudiate Randall and the protectionist Democrats. Frank's district repudiated Frank with such vigor and dexterity two years ago that even the Democratic house of representatives didn't have the effrontery to admit him on any bogus plea of "irregularities" in the election of his opponent. He hasn't much of a "pull" with the people, and his advice in this particular will hardly be needed.

MORE than $3,000,000 of gold was shipped to Europe last week. All this sort of thing is in the nature of victory for the silver-plated statesmen.

The Convention.

The greatest party in the richest of the States of the Union was in Convention Wednesday, June 30. We do not forget that in Pennsylvania this great party achieved its most noticable triumph two years ago in giving 81,000 majority to Mr. Blaine. The gathering to-day is only of direct importance to the State, but indirectly it will affect the entire future of the Republican party in the country.

The conclusion can be already drawn—yes, it was drawn weeks ago—that Gen. James A. Beaver is its nominee for Governor. All the rest of the ticket is strong and representative. All that remains is for the platform of the party to be clear, decided and definite in its declarations. At this moment we cannot give it to our readers.

This year we do not apprehend any outside influences to interfere with the success of the party. The feeling throughout the country, and perhaps most of all in this State, is stronger now in its favorable regard for the Republican party than ever before. A few years' experience with Democracy has produced the result. All that remains now is for every Republican to support the ticket in every way that lies in his power. We have not a word to say against Governor Pattison. Since the first few mistakes he made, such as the costly extra session of the legislature, vetoing good bills, etc., he has behaved wisely. But remember that the brief Democratic regime has only proven the fact that Republican rule is good, by the utter failure to unearth any fraud or dishonesty in State Government. A party that could keep in control of State government twenty-two years with no mistakes or dishonest dealings is surely the one to perpetuate in control, and the people of the State will see that the Republican party is restored to power.

M. Pasteur, M. D.

The great French doctor who discovered a cure for hydrophobia is just now meeting some reverses in his singularly successful experiments and the shallow-pated critics make him the object of their clumsy comments. Just because of the death of one or two persons whom he treated they decide at once that his new system of curing hydrophobia is a failure. If we are to judge by experience it will take many hundred cases to definitely decide that point. Many persons who have been bitten by mad dogs went to Pasteur and their future lives were watched by a lynx-eyed public. That only one or two have died, it seems to us, is strongly indicative of the value of his cure. Perhaps no medicine is a certain cure for any disease in all cases. We believe that the Doctor is on the right track to prevent the disease, and future ages will prove that his discovery is a boon to the world.

ONE of the worst outbreaks of the striking impulse this season occured at Chicago Saturday on the part of the switchmen of the Lake Shore railroad. In blocking up the tracks and turning off switches the strikers not merely obstructed traffic and and travel, but they recklessly endanger human life. The grievances of the strikers consist in the refusal of the railroad company to discharge eight switchmen who have been many years in its service, and and who refused to participate in the strike of 1877. This is a very old grudge, and it might have been supposed that the eight poor switchmen would have been able to plead a moral statute of limitations against the accusation. The company could not yield to the demand of the strikers without cowardice and inhumanity toward faithful servants. But because the company refused to dismiss the obnoxious switchmen its trains were stopped, and business and travel obstructed throughout its line. This strike is so senseless in its origin, and the interests which it affects are so great that its speedy suppression and the release of railroad traffic from restraint may be confidently anticipated.

BEECHER landed at Liverpool Saturday evening and was enthusiastically received by a large crowd of people. When he reached his hotel he found a great many telegrams and letters awaiting him and he was called on by the American consul and numerous distinguished gentlemen.

ANY attempt by Dakota to force her recognition as a state by an appeal to arms would most likely be a gloomy and dismal failure. A territory can not shoot herself into this glorious Union any more than a state can shoot herself out of it.

GENERAL NOTES.

The centenary of the first climbing of Mont Blanc comes August 8.

A girl in Richland Co., O., killed a big rattlesnake, tanned its skin and made a belt of it.

The clothing stock of A. Closse & Sons, on Superior street, Cleveland, O., was damaged by fire and water Sunday to the extent of $18,000.

The greatest length of Lake Michigan is 300 miles; its greatest breadth, 108 miles; mean depth, 600 feet; elevation, 506 feet; area, 23,000 square miles.

Men who habitually use intoxicating spirits are more difficult to cure, if bitten by a mad dog, than the temperate men. So says the famous Pasteur.

The average yearly expenses of this year's graduating class at Yale College were $960. The largest sum spent by any man in a year was $2,750, and the smallest $150.

A young lady in San Leandro dreamed that she was riding and that the horse was running away. She jumped and fell from the bed to the floor, dislocating her shoulder.

Attention is called to two races of men which must soon become extinct—the Maoris, of New Zealand, now reduced to less than 45,000, and the Laplanders, who number 30,000.

Citizens of an Illinois town made a kite seven feet long, and a few days ago sent it 2,000 feet into the air. A windlass was rigged, and it required the power of three men to draw the kite back to earth again.

In this country 3 newspapers are devoted to the silk worm, 6 to the honey bee, 32 to poultry · gastronomy is represented by 3 papers, candy making by 3. Almost every trade and profession has its special organ.

It is said that the best strawberry country in the world is a few miles north of Newark, N. J. During good seasons some of the strawberries raised in that neighborhood are so large that it takes only 12 of them to make a quart.

A tramp asked for something to eat at a restaurant in Mattoon, Ill. The cook offered to give him two dozen fried eggs if he would eat them all. The tramp agreed and the eggs were set before him. After having eaten 21 eggs, a loaf of bread and some sardines, he fell asleep

The popular superstition concerning the unluckiness of spilling salt probably originated in Leonda da Vinci's picture of "The Last Supper," where Judas is represented as overturning the salt. Some people always throw a pinch of the spilled salt over their right shoulder, hoping thereby to prevent misfortune.

A Chicago preacher, in an attack upon the weed says the most intelligent and discriminating cannibals, no matter how intense their hunger, will never touch the flesh of a man who chews or smokes tobacco. This is an important fact that missionaries going to the other side of the world to Christainize barbarians should remember.

Tennis, as it is at present played, has only existed for about 12 years, as it was first played in England in 1875. It is much the same as hand tennis, which was played in Paris as far back as 1424. Shakespeare also frequently alludes to tennis in his writings, and tells us that it was once actually prohibited as an amusement for the English court because it savored too strongly of French fashion and coxcombry.

Twenty-six years ago Joseph Loth was an invited guest when the Putnam Phalanx of Hartford visited the grave of General Putnam. At that time a subscription paper was circulated to secure a fund to erect a monument over "Old Put's" grave, and Mr. Loth put down his name for $10. He heard no more about the monument until last week, when he read that it was about to be erected. Thereby he made good his subscription by sending $10 to Adjutant Tyler, of the Putnam Phalanx.

Two sun dials are on the Gray and Black nunnery in Ottawa. The old clock on the eastern end of Faneuil Hall, in Boston, was formerly a dial of this kind, and on some of the old church towers in England one may see them to-day. Aside from the kinds mentioned the dials now in existence are intended more for ornament than for use. In the days when dials were used each one contained a motto of some kind, like these: "Time flies like the shadow," or, "I tell no hours but those that are happy."

Daniel R. Arnold is the station agent at Pawtucket. Recently the clerks and freight hands went to his office in a body, and the spokesman began a speech about the strikes out West and the relations of employers and employed, and was going on when Mr. Arnold very impatiently and sternly said: "State your grievance." The next moment he felt the cheapest of any man in New England, for the spokesman said the boys had come to make him a present on his 57th birthday. It was a nice present, but Mr. Arnold could hardly say "thank you," he was so surprised.

A new telegraph instrument, called the "Sensophone," has been brought out. It derives its name from from the fact that the message is received on the finger by the sense of touch, instead of by the ear as in the well-known "Sounder." Otherwise the apparatus is similar to a "sounder, and consists of an electromagnet, which is traversed by the signal currents from the telegraph line, and attracts an armature. The armature operates a small probe or style, which rests against the finger with its point, and into it so as to be felt by the receiver. The attraction of the armature actuating the probe is interpreted by the receiver, and is written down as the message. Of course, the advantage of the plan is that no sound is heard, and therefore the telegraph is a silent one. A person may also write down the message with one hand while receiving it with the other.

Poetry.

AN AMIABLE CYNIC.

I've drunk good wine
From Raone to Rhine,
And filled the glass
To friend or lass.
Mid jest and song
The gay night long,
And found the bowl
Inspired the soul
With neither wit, nor wisdom richer
Than comes from the water pitcher.

I've ridden far
In coach and car,
Sped four in hand
Across the land;
On gallant steed
Have measured speed
With the summer wind
That lagged behind;
But found more joy or days together
In tramping o'er the mountain heather.

I've dined, long since,
With king and prince,
In solemn state,
Stiff and sedate;
And wished I might
Take sudden flight
And dine alone,
Unseen, unknown,
On a mutton chop and hot potato
Reading my Homer or my Plato.

It comes to this—
The truest bliss
For great or small
Is free to all;
Like the fresh air,
Like flowers fair,
Like night or day,
Like work or play;
And books that charm and make us wiser—
Better to know than king or kaiser.

MY HERO.

What signifies the outward show?
What signifies his wealth or place?
When we the heart have learned to know,
What do we care for form or face?
What care we for name or creed
That buried ages may unroll,
If under all we clearly read
The record of a dauntless soul?

If loyal to his sense of right,
If prompt and sure at duty's call,
He walks, as walking in God's sight,
His aim the manliest man of all;
If helpful as the sunbright day,
If pitiful of other's woes,
He follows in the Master's way
And bears a blessing where he goes.

If, gaining much, he loses all,
While summer friends go coldly by,
He proves his courage by his fall,
Resolved to win the day or die;
With hope alive, in God his trust,
He keeps a spirit kind and true,
And rises bravely from the dust
To fight his weary battle through;

If, working on through pain and loss,
His earnest soul be not cast down;
He beareth patiently his cross,
While winning steadily his crown—
The man's a hero! and we give
The need of love, which is due,
No idle praise! but, while we live,
The wreath of bay! the knot of blue!

THE SWEET GIRL-GRADUATE.

When the merry month of May,
With its flowers, is over,
And the thrush's roundelay
Echoes from the clover;
When all nature is atune,
And each bird discloses
That it is the month of June,
Garlanded with roses.
Then it is we fondly wait
For the sweet girl-graduate.

With her essay, ribbon-bound—
Manner shy but winning,
Blushing she looks around,
Ere she reads, beginning:
"Out upon the sea of life"—
Don't you recognize it?
Hackneyed from its years of strife—
Just the same we prize it.
Heaven send a kindly fate
To the sweet girl-graduate!

IN THE SOUTH.

A little gray swallow,
I fled to the vales
Of the nightingales,
And the woods of Apollo.

Behind me lie the sheer white cliffs, the hollow
Green waves that break at home, the northern gales,
The misty skies, the home steads in the dales—
For all my home is far and cannot follow.

O nightingale voices,
O lemons in flower,
O branches of laurel!

You are all here; but, ah, not here my choice is!
Fain would I pluck one pink-veined bloom of sorrel,
Or hear the wrens build in a hazel bower.

Our Story Teller.

A REMINISCENCE OF LONG BRANCH

Long Branch was crowed with visitors, and the fashionable hotels were reaping their annual harvest. One afternoon the guests of a certain hotel were congregated on the piazza enjoying the cool breeze, and some of the ladies were discussing with great animation the last arrival.

Rose Burnett, a lively brunette, exclaimed in rather loud tones,—

"I am sure that Mrs. Grant is an adventuress."

Before she could finish the sentence her friend, Helen Page, whispered "Be silent!" for the object of their remarks was approaching.

It was evident that she had overheard the conversation, for her pale cheek flushed as she seated herself on a distant bench.

Belle Grant was attired in deep mourning, and the sombre hue of her garments rendered more apparent the delicate fairness of her complexion. Her golden hair was carelessly pushed back from her broad, low brow, and her large blue eyes were clouded by sorrow. She would have been lovely if her face had not worn an expression of hopeless despair.

A beautiful boy approached. For a moment Belle's countenance was radiant with joy.

"Mamma," said the child, and his big, black eyes filled with tears, "all the boys have a papa who is kind to them, and brings them lots of nice things. Why does not my father come to see me?"

The mother bowed down her head and replied,—

"Pray to God, my son, and perhaps He will bring your father back to us."

Rose glanced triumphantly at her friend Helen and exclaimed,—

"It is just as I supposed; the fair Mrs. Grant is an imposter. She is evidently not a widow, as her reply to her boy proves. But her husband has never made his appearance, nor is he likely to do so, unless the prayers of the infantine cherub work miracles."

"Rose, how can you be so sarcastic?" replied Helen. "I am sure that Mrs. Grant is a true woman, I think that she is overwhelmed by some great sorrow, and we should regard her with sympathy, and not with ill-natured suspicion."

As Helen ceased speaking, Belle approached the young ladies and addressed Rose with well-bred self-possession.

"Pardon me," she said, "but I have been an unwilling listener to your conversation. You are correct in your conjectures, I am not a widow, but I am a wife, and if I wished, I could unravel the mystery by which I am surrounded. However, I excuse your uncharitable insinuations, for you are young and inexperienced; but in future never slander one of your own sex. If you meet an outcast, and she is endeavoring to reform, be womanly; hold out a helping hand to her, and do not push her deeper into the abyss.

Rose's face became crimson from passion as she listened to this well-merited rebuke, and with inexcusable rudeness she turned away from Belle without uttering a word.

"Pray excuse my friend," said Helen. "She is a spoilt child; however, I hope that she will profit by your good advice. And now suppose we change this most unpleasant subject; will you accompany me to the beach? I suppose you enjoy the water."

"Indeed I do!" was the answer. "I was considered an excellent swimmer, but unfortunately I am so delicate that my physician has forbidden me to bathe; however, I will join you in your walk."

As they approached they heard Rose Burnett's shrill voice urging her companions to follow her, and not to be cowards. Belle glanced at the bathers, and noticed that Rose was too venturesome. Forgetting her insulting conduct she cried,—

"Remember the under-current!"

The foolish girl, instead of appreciating these kind intentions, became more daring, and ventured out still further.

Suddenly a cry of despair was heard. Rose Burnett was sinking!

Belle, without an instant's hesitation, plunged into the water. She was an able swimmer, and soon rescued the unfortunate girl, who was almost exhausted; in another moment she would have been past human aid. But a firm grasp held her up—gentle tones cheered her. A brave woman had risked her life to save a enemy.

At length she reached the shore. Kindly hands relieved her of her inanimate burden; then her over strained nerves relaxed, and Belle Grant became unconscious.

She was carried to her room, and Helen watched at her bedside.

A few hours elapsed, and Rose shared her friend's vigil. The young girl had quite recovered from her adventure, but her brave preserver was not so fortunate; the sudden shock had proved too severe for a frame so delicate and for many days she lingered on the threshold of death. She became delirious, and shrieked in tones of horror.

"Do not look at me so scornfully with your big black eyes! I am alone in the world, but I am a true wife! I tell you girl," she continued; "that my boy has no occasion to blush for his mother. I am not an outcast!"

Rose was conscience stricken, as she listened and realized how nobly Belle Grant had returned good for evil.

The sufferer again spoke; her delirium had carried her back to woeful scenes, "spare my husband! Although apparently guilty, he is not so! Oh, Father in Heaven," she exclaimed, "they have sent him to jail! I shall never see my love again!"

She sank exhausted on her pillow. Nature was merciful: slumber visited the invalid. Care and sorrow was forgotten in the blissful unconsciousness of sleep. She was happy; the loved one had returned; his innocence was proved; once more she was clasped in her husband's arms.

She moved uneasily; alas! it was but a dream. She awoke; the delirium of fever had passed away; yet her mind was bewildered, and she murmured:

"What has happened?"

In a moment Rose was at her side.

"Thank God," she cried, "that you are better! But do not talk, and I will tell you all that has occurred. I met you and was envious of your beauty; I was jealous when my admirers deserted me and devoted themselves to you. Although you did not encourage them, yet I hated you, and endeavored by malicious insinuation to injure your reputation. In return, you risked your life to save mine—the life of a wicked, heartless girl!"

Tears choked her, and she could not utter another word.

"Rose," said Belle, "we are but human, and none of us are perfect. I am sure that your penitence is sincere, therefore I forgive you. Bring me my boy, and you will afford me more happiness than you have ever caused me pain."

Another moment, and Belle clasped her little one in her arms.

"O mamma!" said the child, "I have done nothing but cry since I saw you last. I thought that you had gone away to look for papa, and you would not come back."

"My love," was the fond reply, "your mother will never leave you."

A few weeks passed. It was Belle's first appearance on the piazza since her illness; and the ladies crowded around her and overwhelmed her with congratulations on her recovery and with compliments on her heroism.

Her little boy suddenly approached her in a state of great excitement.

"Mamma," cried the child, "I have found papa!"

Belle looked up; she uttered a scream of joy, and then threw herself into her husband's arms. Her dream was realized: The lost one had returned. His innocence was at last proved, and he was free.

Belle had already won all hearts by her heroism, and her husband soon proved himself worthy of his fair young wife. The reunited pair soon became the most popular guests of the hotel.

A Base Ball Report.

[From the Kansas City Times.]

I can conceive of no more delightful study for the philologist and metaphorist than a modern account of the great National game of base ball. Never before have I realized the wondrous possibilities of the English language.

"You will observe, my friends," I began, "that the points were occupied by Whitney and Hackett as our battery, and that Grasshopper Jim filled the pitcher's box. A battery consists of a batterer and a battered, the batter standing between."

"Why do they put the pitcher in a box?" inquired the young lady with a bang.

"I don't know," I answered, doubtfully, "unless it is a measure of economy. Pitchers come high."

"I know," said the young woman with intellectual curvature of the nose; "it is to keep the opposing players from hurting him. I read in the paper the other day that when Radbourne stepped out of the box Capt. Rowe hopped onto him with both feet."

"Very likely," I replied; "but to continue. Hornung got a base on balls and Sutton pasted a corker to Bassett, who threw to second, doubling Hornung up."

"What is a base on balls?" asked a fair girl in white lawn. "I thought they always strapped the bases down."

"What did Hornung do after he was doubled up?" inquired the young woman with the bang. "Did it hurt him very much?"

"I presume not," said the girl with the intellectual nose. "I saw the other day that Donnelly let a ball go through him, and yet he went right on playing as coolly as if nothing had happened."

"Dear me, it's all so strange," said the representative of sentiment.

"Then," I went on, not heeding the interruption, "Wise hit a la la to Myers and went out at first."

"What's a la la?" cried the girls in chorus.

"Opinions differ," I replied. "When Rowe made that home run on the Kansas City grounds I heard O. P. Dickinson say it was a la la, but E. E. Wilson observed that it was a lil. When authorities cannot agree I don't profess to be able to decide."

"Kansas City now came to the bat," I continued, "and found Stemmyer at once. They got onto him in great shape and pounded him all over the field."

"How brutal!" exclaimed the girls. "Why didn't he hide in the box?"

"That doesn't seems to make any difference," said the intellectual girl. "Didn't you see how they knocked Clarkson out of his box the other day in New York? Why, the papers say they just went for him and slugged him right and left."

"Yes," said the girl with the bang, "my brother told me that when the Chicagos were in Washington Mr. Crane tried to pitch, and made the Chicagos mad, and every one of them hit him and they actually laid him out cold in the fifth inning."

"True," said the sentimental girl, "George was telling me some time ago that the Kansas City boys were just laying, as he called it, for Buffington, and were going to knock the life out of him."

"It must be a terribly thing to be a pitcher," said the fair young thing in white. "Papa told me he wasn't going to any more ball matches, because he was tired of seeing our pitchers hammered."

"If you will give me your attention, ladies," I said a little severely, "we will proceed with the last half of the first inning. The boys were on their muscle, and wielded the willow with fine effect. After two runs had been scored Lillie was called out on strikes, and kicked vigorously at the umpire."

"What is the umpire?" inquired the sentimental girl.

"Oh, I know that," replied the fair one in white; "he's the little man who does all the talking and whom the boys call 'rats.'"

"I think it's very wrong to kick him," said an amiable girl, speaking for the first time. "I have no doubt he meant to do what's right."

"The inning closed with three runs for Kansas City," I went on, "and after that the Bostons had a picnic."

"Oh, wasn't that nice!" cried the girls; "I hope they invited the umpire."

The Man who Saved General Beaver's Life.

By Col. A. Wilson Norris in Philadelphia Weekly News.

Several months ago my office door was darkened by the shadow of a man clad in a rough looking suit of clothes thrown on him in a careless and indifferent way that betokened an utter disregard of what might be thought of his appearance. His coat was not of a fashionable cut, his hat had no semblance of those of the prevailing mode, his trousers were stuffed into a pair of raw hide boots, a thick woolen shirt protruded from his half buttoned coat, and his neck was unencumbered with a tie of any kind. One glance at the man revealed all these imperfections of dress, but as you lifted your gaze from his clothes to his face and saw the intelligence that shone from his eyes, and then observed the poise of his stalwart, well knit form, and the ease and confidence with which he took his seat, and raised his slouch hat from a brow that was bronzed, but which was broad and thought-lined, I involuntarily said to myself, this uncouth garb covers something manly or I will never trust a good face again.

I was not mistaken. There sat before me one of the best soldiers who ever drew a sabre in the late war—whose army record will challenge comparison with the most gallant veterans of the State, and whose life since as a citizen has been a continuous exemplification of the plain, matter of fact fidelity to duty and principle that marked his military career. In the community in which he lives he not only commands the respect but the confidence of his fellow citizens, who have again and again honored him with private and public trusts. He had come in to offer me services of a peculiar and gratifying nature, and which indicated that he had influence at home, and as he unfolded to me the purpose of his friendly visit and I listened to his pointed and practical observations the feeling came over me that I was in the presence not only of a manly fellow, but one of strong sense and good judgement, who made up for a lack of education by an abundance of natural wit and wealth of experience that were vastly superior to all the teachings and tenets of the schools.

AT REAM'S STATION.

By a quick turn of our conversation it drifted into reminiscences of the war. "Do you know," he suddenly exclaimed, "I believe I was the means of saving General Beaver's life." "Where?" I replied. "At Ream's Station," he answered, "and it was in this way: Our cavalry was out in the front, and had done some hard fighting, but we finally struck a heavy body of the enemy's infantry and were forced to give way. We held our own until a line of our infantry came to our relief, and then the enemy opened upon us with musketry and shot and shell, we went pell-mell to the rear to get beyond their fire. We were going at a thundering pace, and I tell you a fellow rides fast when he is getting away from such a fire, when I saw in front of us the form of a man lying on the ground with his hat held up, as if beseeching us not to run him down. We were riding like madmen, and it appeared impossible that he should escape being crushed by some of the horses' hoofs, as the heavy column surged towards him. But a lot of the boys, like myself, had seen him lying there, and the column sort of drew to the right and left, as we swung like a whirlwind past his body.

"I happened to be on the right of that part of the column to the left, and as we swept by I saw that the man was a Union officer, for I caught a glimpse of his blue uniform and shoulder straps. 'In God's name don't let us leave a comrade in such a plight,' I shouted, and my captain and myself wheeled our horses and in an instant were at his side and lifting up the young wounded colonel, for such we discovered him to be. We carried him off the field and he was taken to a hospital, where his leg was amputated, which we heard saved his life. The young colonel whom we picked up was General Beaver and I have always had a liking for the man ever since—perhaps it was because I helped save him. Wouldn't it have been terrible if he had been crushed beneath our horses' heels?"

ROUGH ATTIRE.

I shuddered at the thought, and as my visitor arose to leave I again took a look at his peculiar, sinewy frame, and thought how weighty must have been the blow from a sabre wielded by his powerful arm. As he bade me good-bye with the dignity and self-possession of a courtier, I could not resist thinking how easy it would have been to have formed a wrong impression of this man by reason of his rough attire, and I made a mental note that they deserve to be deceived who value things as they seem. Outward appearances are often deceitful and misleading, and a man's clothes are no more an index of his character than his words are of his intentions—the former as often cover a knave as the latter do a lie.

A few weeks after the above described interview I was conversing with General Beaver when some little incident recalled it, and I narrated the story as it was told to me. "It's true, it's true, all he told you," said the General, in his earnest and nervous way, "and a good soldier and a big-hearted fellow he is. I had just gone to the front from the hospital, where I had been prostrated with the wound I had received in the assault upon the enemy's works at Petersburg, Va. It was an ugly wound, and its healing was very protracted. My brigade was in close proximity to the enemy and a battle imminent, and I was anxious to be with it once more. My impatience made me daily more restive, and I concluded I would be better with my command, and I made up my mind to rejoin it, which I did at Ream's Station on the eve of the battle at that place. I came upon the field in an ambulance when the fight had just opened at a point where my brigade was in plain view, its skirmishers being thrown out and engaged with the enemy.

WOUNDED.

"My orderly led the horses, and I moved forward and relieved the officer in command of the brigade. I then walked up and down in the rear of the line taking in the situation, and, believing a fight was impending, directed the orderly to take the horses and keep them behind a church near by, where they would be in less danger from the fire. At this time an occasional shell whirled over our heads, and now and then a stray ball whizzed near us. The orderly had scarcely reached the church with the horses when I felt a sharp pang in my leg and instantly fell. I tried to raise myself on my feet and found I could not, and that a ball had penetrated my leg. The brigade, meantime, had become hotly engaged with the enemy, and suddenly I saw a large body of cavalry dashing to the rear at a fearful pace, and the thought immediately possessed me that I should, in my helpless condition, be crushed beneath their horses' heels. They came on, as our friend said, like madmen, horses and men being goaded to fury by a shell or shot thrown here and there into their columns, and you can imagine how trying was my position, situated as I was. But I determined to make an effort for my life, and lifting myself, as well as I could, on my leg, I pulled off my cap and waved it too and fro to attract attention. On they came, men and horses apparently frantic, but fortunately for me they had seen the signal, and the column deflected to the right and left, swinging by me at a break-neck speed and leaving me untouched. I fell back upon the ground overcome with the excitement and exhaustion, and the next moment strong but friendly voices said to me, "Come, colonel, let us help you off the field", and I was lifted up and carried to the rear and sent to a hospital, where my leg was amputated. The wound was of such a character as to need immediate attention to save me even with amputation, and your visitor was right, therefore, when he told you he saved my life."

Just at this crisis of our conversation a knock was heard at the door of the General's room, where we were sitting, and grasping his crutch with one step he nimbly reached the door before I had time to rise, and greeting his caller with a pleasant salutation took up the thread of another discourse and went along with it as cheerily as if he was physically the soundest man in the room.

Four frightful wounds were this gallant soldier's inheritance from the war. Through all the years since the close of that war he has uncomplainingly and cheerfully taken up life's burthens, whether at home or for the public, with the same calm heroism that supported him on that morning at Ream's Station. It seems to me that in the measuring out the gratitude of people to such a man they should give ungrudgingly, for, if the debt they owe him is to be computed by any just standard, what compensation can they make him for the suffering sustained in their service?

A Lonely Old Woman's Watch for her Boy.

Western Chronicle.

A few miles west of Lawrence, Kan., an old woman lives alone in an old, tumble down hut at the edge of the woods. She has no friends who visit her, nor does she visit any one. She has lived in this manner the last four years, having nothing to do with anybody. Every day, rain or shine, she drives into town from home, four miles away, and goes directly to the depot, where she waits for the 12 o'clock train from the east. When the train comes in she watches closely the face of every young man who gets off. After she has done this and the train starts out, she gazes after the moving cars and heaves a sigh. She then gets into her little cart and drives home.

It is said that the old woman is quite wealthy, and that she had a son in Boston, where she came from, who was sent to the penitentiary. The employes at the depot, who have watched her many a time, say that every day she turns away with tears in her eyes and a disappointed look, but appears regularly the next day. They say she has not missed the train at noon more than a dozen times in the last three years.

"A few nights ago," says a Washington paper, "Grover had the worst kind of a nightmare. He imagined he was being battering-rammed in the back by the combined Democratic party of the country for his disobedience, and when he awoke he found it was only Frankie kicking him in the back with her knees to awake him so he could get up and start the fire."

Lavina—"Oh, dear; what can I find to trim this hat with, I wonder?" Phaseolus—"I wouldn't trim it at all, if I were you." Lavina—"But I can't wear a hat without trimmings, you stupid thing." Phaseolus—"Don't wear it, my dear." Lavina—"And what shall I do with it then, funny?" Phaseolus—"Put a weather vane on it and let some church edifice builder have it for a spire."

The Oleomargarine bill is causing an immense amount of talk. If they could only get some that was made early last summer, a few pounds of it would be strong enough to carry the bill through both houses and a third reading unaided.

A husband telegraphed to his wife, "What have you for breakfast, and how is the baby?" The answer came "Buckwheat cakes and measles."

Ingomisca—"You look like Senator B., John." (delightedly)—"Oh, do I? Is he smart?" Ingomisca—"I don't know. He doesn't look so."

An Irishman tells of a fight in which there was but one whole nose left in the crowd, "and that belonged to the tay-kettle."

It announced that no quarter is to be given the Apaces. That is unnecessary, as the soldiers do not appear to get near enough to them to give them a dime.

An exchange contains an article headed "How a Journalist Outwitted a Queen." The journalist, we suspect, swung the king. We have seen it done frequently.

Tom Pittman says the first time he went courting he felt as if a pink angel had hauled him down a rainbow with a piece of chain-lightning right smack into a pile of down.

"Ah, John!" she said, just before marriage, "I fear I am not worthy of you. You are such a good man." "Never mind, Martha; I'll change all that after the wedding."

"Yes sir," said the sailor, "I have seen a whale that could swallow a boat." "Oh, that's nothing," said the landsman. "I have seen a small man who could swallow a schooner."

It may be going along all right yet with Grover and Frankie, but wait until his first collar button flies off. Then will be the time for the family-jar pedler to step in the door.

"Why don't you mount a clean collar, Brown? I mount one three times a day." "Yes," replied Brown, to the swaggering Jones, "but every one's mother isn't a washerwoman."

"Henry, you ought to be ashamed to throw away bread like that. You may want it some day." "Well, mother, would I stand any better chance of getting it then should I eat it now?"

A personal item says that Miss Jenks, daughter of ex-Assistant Secretary of the Treasury is "going to marry eight millions." She will have to hustle around pretty lively. Few single ladies ever look forward to such a record as this.

"Where are you going?" she said, as her husband started to go out at the end of the first act. "Oh, no place much," he replied, nonchalantly. "I notice the curtain has taken a drop, and I thought a little of doing the same thing myself."

"Ma, has aunty got bees in her mouth?" "No; why do you ask such a question?" "'Cause that little man, with a heap of hair on his face, catched hold of her, and said he was going to take the honey out of her lips; and she said: "Well, make haste."

They were talking about a certain railroad man who is not the most affable person in the world. "Pshaw," said one, "he is a regular old hen." "Course he is," was the prompt answer, "and he can lay more railroad track than any man in the country."

'Why that look of sadness, sire?' queried Dan. "Did I look sad?" asked Grover. "I tried to prevent my looks from exposing my real feelings, but it was hard, very hard, Dan, to give up my night key." "Say no more, sire; I know exactly what you feel."

A small boy in Maine listened demurely to the story of Samson's tying the firebrands to the tails of foxes and then sending them through the Philistines' corn, and at the conclusion of the narrative asked innocently. "Auntie, did it pop?"

A man in Pawtucket recently made application for insurance on a building situated in a village where there was no fire engine. He was asked: "What are the facilities in your village for extinguishing fires?" "Well, it rains sometimes," he replied with great simplicity.

Madam was recounting that her husband was ill the night before and it was necessary to send for a doctor at three o'clock in the morning. "But I thought you had a doctor in the house, your eldest son," said a neighbor. "True, but we only let him doctor the servants."

There was a wedding breakfast. The groom to the little girl—"You have a new brother, now, you know." "Yeth," responded the little one, "ma seth it wath Lottie's lasth chance, so she had better take it." The rest of the little one's talk was drowned in a clatter of knives and forks.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

Hogs that Can Distinguish a Tune.

[Lyons (N. Y.) Republican.]

Farmer Henry Wadsworth, of Wolcott, in this county, has a son Daniel, who has for years worked at home upon his father's farm. He has a great love for domestic animals, and an unusual aptitude for winning their confidence and teaching them tricks. He has taught the horses, dogs and cats upon the farm scores of different tricks, and is well known in Wolcott and vicinity for his ability in this line. Several months ago Daniel heard the old-time saying that swine had no ear for music. He was convinced that the saying was an unjust imputation upon the intelligence of those animals, and by long practice, coupled with rare patience, he has during his leisure hours actually taught the herd of swine at the farm to distinguish the tune of Yankee Doodle when they hear it. It is his daily custom to go into the lot where the swine are feeding, and to whistle the old familiar tune, whereupon every hog will prick up its ears and run to his side. On many occasions he has whistled a number of familiar airs, without touching upon Yankee Doodle, with no effect upon his swinish pupils, but when that tune is reached only a few bars are whistled before the herd comes crowding about him. To any who may disbelieve this Daniel extends as invitation to witness the exhibition any fine day.

Mr. Lincoln's Ingenuity.

Washington Post.

In 1864 he was greatly bothered by the peace-at-any-price men from the North. There was especially one old fellow from Massachusetts, very bland and wholly bald who was the thorn in the Presidential flesh. Mr. Lincoln managed to get rid of him and his Quaker appeals by one device or another, till his ingenuity was severely taxed. One day, when the angel of mercy had been boring him about half an hour, to the delay of important business, the President suddenly rose, walked to a closet and took a large bottle from it.

"Did you ever try this for baldness?" he asked, exhibiting the bottle for his visitor's inspection.

The visitor admitted that he never had. Mr. Lincoln summoned a servant, had the bottle wrapped up and gave it to the astonished philanthropist with the injunction:—"Now go and rub some of that on your head. Persevere; keep it up. They say 'twill make the hair grow. Come back in about three months and report."

The grieved disciple of Penn found himself out the door with the hair-restorer under his arm before he had time to fairly reflect.

A Cyclone of Forty-four Years Ago.

Philadelphia Press.

Stories of the recent cyclone in Ohio are coming in quite freely, but they do not approach the marvelous stories of the tornado that swept up the valley of the Codorus, in York county, in the cold spring of 1842. After the storm we speak of one farmer found that his well had been pulled up by the roots and was hanging on the limbs of a tree four miles away. A cellar belonging to one of his neighbors was split in two, one-half of it being blown thro' a stone quarry and the other half turned up endwise against a haystack in the adjoining county. A flock of geese were completely stripped of their feathers by the wind, and a dried apple pie was blown through the side of a school house, terrifying the teacher and scholars, besides ruining a large map of the grasshopper districts of Kansas. A large barn containing thirteen tons of hay was lifted from its foundation and carried bodily six miles down the valley, where it settled down so squarely that the doors could be opened without prying them. The wind blew the tails off six Durham cows, and a Berkshire pig, weighing 200 pounds, was blown completely through the skin, the hide remaining in a standing position and preserving an expression of naturalness that deceived many visitors. The boundary lines of several townships looked like a curled hair mattress on a hot gridiron, and the air was blown so completely out of the valley that people had to go up on the hills when they wanted to breathe.

What Caused Him to Smile.

Our reporter met Colonel Gullerammer on the street yesterday with his hands up to his jaw and groaning like a house afire.

"What's the matter, Colonel?"

"Oh, I'm all broke up. My jaw is swelling with pain, and I have got a tooth which aches so that it must be pulled out

"Hunting for a dentist then?"

"Yes. Where is Dr. Lewis' office?"

"Just up those steps there."

Our man was coming out of a store a minute later and saw the Colonel coming down the steps with a smile on his countenance as broad as St. Johns river. He accosted him thus:

A quick job, Colonel. Did Dr. Lewis hurt you much in pulling out the tooth?"

"He didn't pull it," chuckled the colonel as he turned away, "bless your sweet life the dentist wasn't in."

IT COMPLETELY CURED

J. F. NEWTON, 513 Broadway, Camden, N. J., Who says: "I was so severely afflicted with rheumatism that I had to carry my arm in a sling. My hands were swollen, my fingers stiff and the pain so intense that for seventeen nights I was unable to sleep. Doctors did me no good. I tried everything; nothing helped me. A friend suggested the Russian Rheumatism Cure. I tried it. Inside of one week I had full use of arm and hand, and have been well ever since."

It has cured every one afflicted with rheumatism who has given it a fair trial.

The Convention.

HARRISBURG, June 28.—Nearly all of the candidates before the Republican convention, which meets here on Wednesday, have arrived. From all the talk to-night, it looks as though the ticket will be Beaver for governor, Davis for lieutenant governor, Norris for auditor general and Stewart for secretary of internal affairs. The only contest of note is that over the nomination for congressman-at-large. Ex-State Senator Roberts has established headquarters here and is making some progress as a candidate for that nomination. The present congressman-at-large, Mr. Osborne, however, seems to have the better chance. Montooth for lieutenant governor and Grimison for auditor general have so far developed some strength.

Mr. Quay, in speaking of the platform and what it might contain, said this evening that a plank advising the reference of the prohibition question to a vote of the people would possibly be incorporated, but Chairman Cooper on the other hand thinks the subject will be ignored. The feature of the platform will be a plank strongly advocating the American protective tariff system. Quay thinks the plan to base the representation in the state convention hereafter upon the Republican vote does not seem to meet with great favor and will probably not be adopted as advised by the committee on rules, but the system of senatorial representation may be abolished.

A resolution in favor of the establishment of a board of arbitration to settle disputes between labor and capital, will be introduced and be supported by the party leaders, and is likely to be adopted. Senator Cameron will be here to-morrow.

The Lake Shore Strike.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Train wrecking, riot and bloodshed have marked the progress of the Lake Shore strike to-day.

Shortly after the strikers blockaded the line last night, by throwing a lot of empty cars across from the Rock Island tracks, the night express, consisting of eleven coaches and carrying the United States mail, ran down the west bound track, but, finding the way blocked, ran back, was switched on the east bound track and started down at the rate of about eight miles an hour. At Fifty-first street a man ran out and turned the switch as the train came along. The locomotive immediately jumped the track, carrying the tender and the forward truck of the first coach with it. For a minute there was a terribly jarring and knocking about, and then the train came to a standstill. The locomotive had run over the bare ties for more than a hundred feet, and finally, pushing two of them apart, sank in the mud. The lever was reversed and efforts made to back upon the track, but without success.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The Lake Shore company moved no freight to-day, and attempted to move none. There was perfect order in the yards all day. The officers stationed there to protect the company's property had nothing to do, as hardly a striker put in appearance. The switchmen expect, however, lively work for to-morrow. They held meetings to-day and resolved to use every means within their reach to maintain their ground.

How it is with the Bills.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The following summary statement presents the condition of the regular annual anpropriation bills to become laws: The Indian Appropriation bill, awaiting the President's approval; Military Academy, passed both Houses but now in the hands of the Conference Committee; Post office Army, District of Columbia, Agricultural, Consular and Diplomatic, and Pension, passed the House of Representatives and are waiting the report from the Senate Committees; River and Harbor Naval and Legislative, Executive and Judicial are under consideration in the House of Representatives; Sundry Civil is in course of preparation by the House, Committee on Appropriations, General Deficiency and Fortifications.

Death of David Davis.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., June 26.—Judge David Davis died here at 6 o'clock this morning. During the early part of last evening he appeared to be failing, and it was felt certain that he could not live through the night. At 11 o'clock he revived somewhat and was given milk and stimulants in small quantities. The effect was for the worse, however, for he relapsed into a comatose condition, his pulse becoming very feeble. During the succeeding three hours he failed gradually, his respiration growing noticeably weaker, until the end came.

Storm in the West.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Dispatches from Decatur, Rockford and other points in Central Illinois report a severe hail and wind storm yesterday, which did great damage to the crops.

Condition of David Davis.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 25.—Judge David Davis has declined steadily today and may die before morning. His physicians say he cannot live more than two days at the most.

Beaten Again.

NEW LONDON, June 25.—Yale defeated the University of Pennsylvania in the eight-oared race to-day. Time—Yale, 23;33: Pennsylvania, 24:46.

The Fitz John Porter Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The senate today passed the Fitz John Porter bill—yeas 30, nays 17. The bill now goes to the president.

A Family's Peril.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 28.—A fire broke out at 2 o'clock this morning in the basement of the bakery of Andrew McMasters in the three-story brick building 461 Fifth avenue. It was caused by the boiling over of a kettle of fat which was used for the boiling of crullers. Mrs. Elizabeth Hawes, a widow, and her family, consisting of two daughter and two sons, occupied the third floor. When the firemen reached the apartments they found the widow, her two daughters and a little boy in an unconscious condition. The oldest son had made his escape and notified the firemen that the rest of the family were in the building. Physicians worked hard to resuscitate the unfortunate ones. Mrs. Hawes, Edith, the eldest daughter, and the youngest son were afterwards removed to the College hospital and they are still in a critical condition. Gertrude, the other daughter, is believed by the physicians to be in a hopeless condition.

Manning.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 28.—Since his departure from Washington, the Hon. Daniel Manning has been rapidly regaining his old time vigor and strength in the quiet seclusion of one of the summer resorts of the old Dominion. Away up among the Virginia hills at Hot Springs, he is enjoying the much needed and well earned repose which his physicians deemed advisable for him to take. Yet even in this enforced seclusion he does not permit himself to lose sight of what is going on in the world, but keeps track through the newspapers, and through conversations with persons who visit him, of what is doing at home and abroad in affairs of governments and politics, which especially interest him.

Briefs.

WINCHESTER, O., June 28.—James Turner and wife returning home from this city this morning, were thrown from their buggy by the horse taking fright at a drove of hogs. Mrs. Turner's head struck a stone, killing her instantly. Mr. Turner was fatally injured.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 28.—Secretary Edge and Drs Bridge and Weber, of the state board of agriculture, to-day slaughtered a herd of six cows which had been suffering from pleuro-pneumonia on the farm of Henry Bender near Turkey hill.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The following fourth-class postmasters were to-day appointed in Pennsylvania: H. Russell Karchner, at Billman; Patrick J. Duggan, at Dunmore, and Orson G. Shearman at East Sharon.

EDINBURG June 28.—The Balruddery mansion at Dundee, owned by Mr. Martin White, merchant, of New York, was destroyed by fire to-day. The loss is $250,000.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Senator Morrill's condition is reported to be so much improved to-day that his physicians and friends say he will be all right in a few days.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—William A. Potter, ex-judge of the state supreme court, died suddenly this evening, while walking near his residence.

NYACK, N. Y., June 28.—An attempt was made last evening by some unknown person to wreck a train upon the Northern railroad by putting two ties on the rails near Closter. The engineer saw them in time and stopped the train, when one tie was under the pilot of the engine.

LONDON, June 28.—Two men sailed for New York from the Clyde to-day in a boat nineteen feet long. They took provisions for two months.

OTTAWA, O., June 28.—G. H. Knupp, justice of the peace, skipped out with $3,000 embezzled money to day.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 28.—Mr. John S. Bartlett, since 1877 general northern passenger agent of the Erie railroad, has rendered his resignation, to take effect on the 30th. Mr. Bartlett has had this step under consideration for some time past. His service with the Erie road dates back to 1854.

POTTSVILLE, June 28.—The cigarmakers' lockout inaugurated on Saturday last is already partially ended. All the leading manufacturers except two to-day acceded to the demand of the cigarmakers' union and the men resumed work. It is rumored that the two who held out will shortly succumb.

They Stole the Safe.

HAZLETON, Pa., June 28.—Five men yesterday broke into the house of Mrs. Dennis O'Donnell, situated on the mountain, and taking out the safe rolled it to the foot of the mountain where they blew it open and took therefrom $200 in cash and numerous valuables. A number of the neighbors searched the mountain but could find no track of burglars. The robbery has caused considerable excitement in Butler valley.

The Senate Insists.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—After a debate the senate came to a vote on Plumb's motion to insist on $800,000 for ocean mail transportation clause, added by the senate to the postoffice appropriation bill. The senate insisted on its amendment by a vote of 33 yeas to 12 nays. Six democrats, Brown, Call, Eustis, Gorman, Payne and Pugh, voted with the republicans in the affirmative.

Blaine Leaves for Bar Harbor.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 28.—James G. Blaine and family left to-day for Bar Harbor. Mr. Blaine will there begin the preparation of an important speech which he will deliver at the opening of the state campaign during the first week of August.

To-day's Convention.

HARRISBURG, June 29.—General Louis Wagner will preside as permanent chairman of the Republican State convention to-morrow. B. K. Billingsly will probably be temporary chairman. The city is crowded with delegates, politicians and spectators. Most of the shouting has been for Montooth, the Allegheny candidate for lieutenant governor. His friends are confident that he will make a good nomination and break what is considered the Quay slate. At 10 o'clock this evening, when a caucus of the Philadelphia delegates was over, there was a damper put upon the Montooth boom. A poll had resulted in forty votes for Davies and one for Montooth. Beaver, Norris and Stewart were equally well endorsed. When the delegation came to take a vote on congressman-at-large there was a general rush from the room and no record of the vote was taken. It was expected that Quay would be able to throw almost the entire delegation to Roberts. The failure of this scheme has given the Roberts people a set-back and leaves the fight between him and Osborne still a little in doubt, and that Beaver, Davies, Norris, Stewart and Roberts will constitute the ticket. Chairman Cooper, Col. Quay and Col. Hastings have made a rough draft of the platform, to be submitted to the committee on resolutions to morrow.

The document deprecates the importation of pauper labor and the use of criminal and contract labor; demands the passage of a national law forbidding it. It also demands that laws shall be passed to protect the products on farms and dairy from all adulteration or counterfeits. It advocates the passage of national and state laws affording facilities for conference and arbitration upon disputes between capital and labor, and proclaims that the Republican party is a friend and advocate of personal liberty and of free labor. The state and national administration is denounced as inefficient and inconsistent and unfriendly to the country's industrial and commercial interests, through a lack of experience and ability to meet any of the grave questions of the day. The national administration is denounced as also inconsistent because of its reckless violation of the civil service law. A resolution which was written by General Beaver himself, has been agreed upon, denouncing the maiming of the American system of protection that has been fostered by the Republican party for twenty-five years. The establishment of a navy which can defend the nation and also preserve its honor.

There is still a difference upon the all-absorbing question of prohibition, and it is likely to be reconciled only in the committee on resolutions or in the convention itself. Senator Cameron did not arrive to-day. The convention will meet in the opera house at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Morrison on Randall's Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Mr. Morrison has been looking over the tables attached to Randall's tariff bill intended to exhibit the probable effects of that measure, and he takes issue with Randall's conclusions in several respects. He said to-day, taking the items as given in the published statements, Randall's bill of increase and decrease computed on the basis of last year's importations, he had found that on that basis the bill would increase the customs receipts more than five million dollars.

As for the internal revenue section he said the reduction in receipts would be $36,000,000 instead of $26,000,000. The tobacco tax alone amounted to $26,000,000. At least one-tenth of the spirit production was used in arts and it was proposed to exempt this from tax and there would be also a loss of revenue on fruit brandies. When asked what would be the fate of the bill in the ways and means committee, he said he did not know, but presumed that committee would treat it as it had treated his bill, take what it thought was good out of it, and report it to house and leave out what it thought was bad.

Beecher in London.

LONDON, June 29.—Mr. Gladstone made what is probably his last speech in the campaign here yesterday afternoon, and a great one it was. Nearly seven thousand people had assembled in Hengler's circus to listen to it. The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher sat upon the platform, near to Mr. Gladstone. When Mr. Beecher appeared the great audience knew him at once, and got upon its feet and cheered and shouted loudly and persistently for a speech. It was but a short distance away that, nearly a quarter of a century ago, another great crowd, largely composed of Southern sympathizers, tried hard to prevent Mr. Beecher making an anti-slavery speech.

A Badly Divided Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Three documents in the nature of reports will be presented to the house by the Pan Electric telephone committee; but as neither will be signed by a majority of the committee, technically speaking, there will be no report before the house for action. The report of the chairman will be signed by himself and Messrs. Oates, Edin and Hail, all democrats. Ranney has secured the signatures of Millard, Hanback and Moffatt, all republicans, to his report, while Hall, a democrat, has presented his views in an individual report. Chairman Boyle's report will not be made public before Thursday.

New Hampshire Democracy.

CONCORD, N. H., June 29.—The democratic state convention to-day nominated Thomas Cogswell for governor. Resolutions of sympathy in her struggle for home rule in Ireland were adopted. The platform pledges support to Cleveland's administration and devotion to the doctrine set forth in the last Democratic national platform. A resolution was adopted endorsing the efforts of President Cleveland and Congressmen Morrison and Carlisle and their Democratic colleagues to revise the existing tariff laws.

Elected Assistant Bishop.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—In the Episcopal convention to-day Rev. Osei William Whitaker, bishop of Nevada, was elected assistant bishop of the diocese of Pennsylvania.

—We regret to hear of the illness of Mrs. Noll, the estimable wife of Mr. John Noll, of East Curtin street.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

A Business Enterprise.

If any one who has capital is considering the establishment of a remunerative industry, why not build a potato-flour and farina factory? "R. J. A.," in the Lock Haven Express, in alluding to the establishment of such an industry, says that it would give employment to a large number of hands, and it would consume about fifty thousand bushels of potatoes each year, or about one thousand bushels each week. It can be run the whole year round, and give constant employment to the employees, and be a constant market for potatoes. Fifty thousand bushels extra can easily be furnished in Centre county alone. The potatoes are commonly bought and sold by the ton, the price ranging from ten to fifteen dollars a ton which is from thirty to forty-five cents a bushel. The farina manufactured from potatoes is used for many purposes. Its most important use is for the manufacture of starch. In the production of starch it competes with wheat, Indian corn, rice, sago and other farinaceous substances. It is also used in calico printing, for sizing, and the manufacture of artificial gums, vermacelli, grape-sugar, syrups, confectionery, etc. But its chief use is for starch and sizing, for which purposes alone it is estimated Great Britain could readily take 100,000 to 200,000 tons annually, as the countries that produce it also consume it. As sufficient quantity to supply the demand has not yet been afforded the prospect invites manufacturers to invest. Let Centre county move vigorously in this matter.

Route of the Parade.

Mr. Frank Wescott will be the chief marshal next Saturday and on Tuesday evening gave us the route of parade, as follows:

The parade will form on High street in front of the Bush House at 10 o'clock a. m., and will march from that point to Spring street, thence from Spring to Bishop, along Bishop to Allegheny, north along Allegheny to Howard, thence to Spring, thence to High, up High to the Diamond, thence south along Allegheny to Bishop and then east to the picnic ground.

—Mr. Cyrus Hunter, of Stormstown, writes to us to correct the announcement that the G. A. R. Post of that place will go to Scotia to participate in the celebration on the 3d of July. In looking at our reference to the Scotia celebration we see no such a statement and believe it must have appeared in some other paper. Nevertheless, at Mr. Hunter's request we will state that the G. A. R. post of Stormstown will remain at home that day and will hold a festival, which they expect to be largely patronized.

Fire at Philipsburg.

An extensive fire occurred at Philipsburg at 11 o'clock Monday night. The fire started in the skating rink at that place. It is quite an extensive building. From there it communicated to the old Passmore house and to ex-Sheriff Munson's residence. All of these buildings were burned to the ground. As all the buildings were valuable the loss is heavy.

—Main's Golden International Show is to exhibit in Milesburg on the 14th of July. The Sharon (Pa.) Leader says that the performance of this show "was above the average. The clowns were funny, the gymnasts and tumblers were the best." It seems to us that Milesburg is getting more than her share of attractions. Just think of it—a circus and perhaps a big iron furnace.

—The coal mines in the Clearfield region are all in operation with the exception of VanDusen's, at Houtzdale; Holt, Chipman & Co.'s, at Philipsburg, and the Atlantic collieries, Osceola. Webster colliery, No. 2, owned by the Houtzdale Coal Company, was sold during the week to the Berwind-White Coal Company. This mine averages about 15,000 tons a month.

—Two young men who were on their way to church Sunday evening should have gone there instead of turning back and going a round-about way to the residence of their lady friend. Thus a church choir had to do without one of its singers and report says that the young gents did not get to see their lady friend, as she went to call on a neighbor.

—Attractive dodgers have been printed and will be circulated announcing to the people the complete particulars concerning the entertainment to be given in the Milesburg Methodist church next Friday evening. It will be exceedingly attractive, consisting of choice vocal music, recitations and dialogues. Admission only 10 cents for young and old.

—The prettiest yard in Bellefonte just now is Mrs. Brockerhoff's. It is so pretty because it has in it at present the largest display of bright color of any we have seen. The large circular flower beds in the centre are ablaze with scarlet geranium blossoms and a border of the same bright flowers extends all around the green lawn.

—Mrs. John Pacini, who died on Monday and was buried Wednesday a.m., left behind her several young children who, in their desolate, lonely condition, will have the sympathy of everybody.

SPECIAL MENTION.

Horse Notes.

"I take pleasure in saying that when my horses were sick with what was called lung fever, last Spring, I gave Simmon's Liver Regulator (liquid) in one once doses, twice a day. They all recovered speedily. E. T. MITCHNER, "Prop'r Mitchner Express, Jenkintown, Pa."

"I wish to state that a valuable horse of mine was taken with colic, and, after using all means available, the thought struck me (as I had no salt in the house) to use Simmon's Liver Regulator. After giving about four ounces of it, in the lapse of a half hour he had an operation and was cured. I think it valuable information to yourself and stock raisers.

"Yours respectfully, "W. A. HALLAND, Jessusville, Ga."

—The Americus Club, of Pittsburg, went to Harrisburg on Monday morning on the fast line. The members are a fine looking body of men and are solid for Beaver and Montooth for governor and lieutenant governor. A long streamer with the words "Beaver and Montooth," was on the side of the car occupied by them.

The Voice of the People.

The people, as a whole, seldom make mistakes, and the unanimous voice of praise which comes from those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, fully justifies the claims of the proprietors of this great medicine. Indeed, these very claims are based entirely on what the people say Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them. Read the abundant evidence of its curative powers, and give it a fair, honest trial.

—Although a large part of June was not very pleasant, the closing days seem to be all that can be desired.

LADIES, it will cost you but fifty cents to get a bottle of VINEGAR BITTERS CORDIAL. This CORDIAL is clear, dark red color, and has a delicious taste. It is a most invigorating tonic, and is a gentle, painless, but thorough cathartic. It helps digestion, cures headache, billious attacks, constipation, piles, hives, and strengthens the whole system.

—The circus pitched its tents around on Bishop street, in the field east of Mr. Runkle's house.

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y. 18 17 1y

The highway cow continues to be an intolerable nuisance and numerous are the execrations heaped upon her devoted head. The streets are sufficiently wide for all the beasts that throng our thoroughfares, but the highway cow seems to be aristocratic and has developed a penchant for monopolizing the walk supposed to be reserved for man and his better half. The highway cow is tame. One can approach her and, grasping her crumpled horn, endeavor to push her from the walk, but she will remain there fast as stolid as ever, and if after securing a stick and making her move after she has received a severe poke in the fifth rib, it is only a question of a very short time for her to return to her old position. Out on Curtin street this animal becomes more numerous and cheeky. She leaps fences, unlatches gates, knocks down tree boxes, eats up under saplings, winks and blinks at passers-by, and other things too numerous and disagreeable to mention. People who can afford to do so, keep a servant just for the purpose of protecting property from her depredations. Those who cannot keep a servant for this purpose long ago gave up the idea of protecting themselves and have meekly surrendered to the cow.

—We do not like to do injustice to anyone, and we have about concluded that part of our notice, in Tuesdays's issue, of Hurlburt & Hunting's circus, did that organization some unjustice. They did not come with a great clamor of trumpets and spread-eagle oratory as the manner of some circuses is, but instead they visited town with comparative quiet and gave two exhibitions which are universally conceded to have been superior. The ladies and gentlemen who perform comported themselves with genuine decorum and are artists in their line. On each occasion the tent was crowded and the feats of the actors and the performances of the well trained horses and dogs were admirable. The circus pleased all, the admission was extremely reasonable, and we hope it will see fit to visit Bellefonte on a future occasion.

—Work at the glass factory ended Wednesday night at 12 for two months. The work has been carried on smoothly, successfully and satisfactorily during the past nine or ten months, without any cessation or interruption, and with only a few accidents and they of a trivial nature. The glass-workers are certainly to be envied by the rest of mankind that they can have such a prolonged vacation. Their work is hard and with some perhaps quite exhausting, and these periods of rest and recreation come most opportunely. Then the cessation of work is absolutely necessary because the furnaces must be repaired annually.

—The contract for the building of the new furnace by the syndicate who purchased the Valentine and Thomas properties has not yet been given, neither has an exact location been definitely fixed upon, although it is reasonably certain that the location will be the present site of the Valentine ironworks. The only objection to that locality is that it is somewhat contracted for a modern furnace. Mr. James P. Witherow, of Pittsburg, will probably secure, the contract for building the furnace.

Preamble and Resolutions Passed by the Centre County Prohibition Convention.

INASMUCH as the resolutions passed by our Prohibition brethren of Butler county, in their Convention, held on the 9th ult., fully express our sentiments and political standing; and in order to facilitate the business of our convention and at the same time showing the unanimity of spirit existing between us; therefore, be it unanimously resolved, that we endorse the same with some modification of resolutions Nos. 4 and 5, and such additions as are herewith given, viz:

WHEREAS, This nation has been blessed of God as no other nation has—in its harvests, in its civilization, in its protection against foreign enemies; therefore, we acknowledge His goodness and pray for the continuance of His mercy, and "in the name of God we set up our banners."

WHEREAS, The drink traffic is the greatest crime producer of the age; imbruting and degrading men; pauperizing and degrading homes; breeding insanity and idiocy; the potential cause of Sabbath desecration and all social evils, and annually sending a hundred thousand American citizens to a drunkard's grave.

WHEREAS, The terrible traffic is sanctioned and protected by law, making government a participant in the crime; and, in its revenues from liquors, a receiver of blood money.

WHEREAS, The suppression of this gigantic evil has become the supreme political as well as moral issue of the day; and,

WHEREAS, The Prohibition party is the only political organization which favors and is seeking such suppressions; therefore,

Resolved, That we adopt the following platform as expressing our political views and principles:

First—We propose to go out against the licensed drink-den—the deadly enemy of everything that is good in the home, in the church, in the state—with our ballots as well as with our prayers and teachings.

Second—We reaffirm our allegiance to the Prohibition party. State and National, to the end that law and government shall be arrayed against, instead of for, the drink crime.

Third—We express our sympathy and profess our hearty co-operation with all Temperance workers, and invite them to think and act with us; that the way out is to vote as we pray—to vote with the party aiming directly at the overthrow of the gigantic evil.

Fourth—That whereas the diminuition of places licensed to sell intoxicating liquors has by our present judiciary been effected, we feel like congratulating the ladies of the W. C. T. U. for the advancement made in the temperance cause, which they by their untiring efforts were chiefly instrumental in accomplishing.

Fifth—That the interest manifested in this convention by women and their presence here is an inspiration and great encouragement to our deliberations—that their hitherto unparalleled success under Divine leading has made the W. C. T. U. a potent and controlling factor in this war against Rum—and that we most cordially accept their help in the overthrow of the blighting curse of "strong drink." That the weakness of women is supplemented by omnipotent energy, and their mode suggested by that wisdom which knoweth the end from the beginning, and that in their co-operation with us we recognize forces and influences which we often lack, and without which our final success may be longer postponed.

Sixth—We invite the labor forces of the land, now wildly discontented, and not without cause, to consider whether it will not greatly improve their moral, social and financial condition, by voting the saloon "down and out."

Seventh—We take courage to go forward by the rapid growth of the Prohibition party; and invoking upon the movement the continued blessing of the King of Nations, we appeal to the enlightened judgment of our fellow-citizens and invite the vote of all Christian men against that social and moral pest-house of the day—the drink-den.

Eighth—We are in favor of National Prohibition and we demand of our legislature the immediate and absolute prohibition of the importation, manufacture, sale and use of all alcoholic liquors as a beverage.

Ninth, Resolved—That we hereby express our hearty thanks to the members and officers of the Y. M. C. A. for the use of their hall in the holding of this convention.

Gossip as to America.

From London Truth and World

At a ball given in a Philadelphia hotel the rooms were lavishly "trimmed with greens." The window draperies were removed and replaced by curtains made of asparagus vines intertwined with Jacqueminot roses. The cost of these curtains alone was £30. The shaft of the elevator—Anglice, life—was completely filled in with flowers and blooming plants, and the life itself supported a statue of Pamona, hidden in roses. Our transatlantic friends know how to spend money, do they not?

Countess Karolyi and Mrs. Mackey entertained all London on Saturday night. The reception in Belgrave Square was grand and dull—all diplomacy was there, of course; but, thanks to the untiring exertions of Mrs. Ronalds, Big Bonanza beat Buckingham Palace, the dim outlines of which seemed to frown jealously at the constant flow of coming and departing guests. The singing, the dresses and the jewels were all magnificent. Mr. Henry Irving was amongst the guests.

So the pretty Welsh matron has driven the American maiden off the field. So much the better. The Yankees have enjoyed too long a run of popular and royal favor.

Dr. Holmes will devote the greater part of July and August to a tour in France, Italy and Germany. He will return to Boston in September.

Smoker—"Look here, Isaac, this cigar that I just bought of you wont draw." Isaac—"Won't draw? Vell, do you subbose I'se givin away suction bumps mit dem fife-cent Vigtorias?"

"Doesn't it seem strange that we should employ contractors to enlarge buildings?" asks the Chicago Rambler. Not when we consider the historic qualities of the Chicago maiden's feet.

"Are you having a pleasant time?" asked a lady of a little miss at a fashionable children's party. "Delightful, thanks." "And will your papa and mamma come later?" "Oh dear! no; papa and mamma and I don't belong to the same set."

NEW SYSTEM OF DOING BUSINESS,

And as we are also pleased it is not likely that we shall ever do a

Big Profit and Long Credit

BUSINESS AGAIN.

Our terms are Cash, and positively not over thirty days to responsible parties.

Any farmer that is worthy of credit can borrow money at 6 per cent. and then pay the merchant cash, and save at least 20 per cent., and then if you buy goods at a cash store you don't pay for another man's credit. We have proven beyond question that you can save money by paying cash. A credit store can talk about selling their CASH CUSTOMERS cheap, but they can't do it, and a person with ordinary intelligence knows they can't, and any one that don't know why they can't, we can enlighten them upon the subject. Our experiment has been a success; who knows it better than our customers? We have a Large and Complete Stock for the SPRING TRADE.

Tints Fresh in Favor.

All shades of violet and gray are in high favor. It is said that most of the ladies of the royal family favor the carrying of red sunshades.

A peculiarity of the present fashion is, that while all the neutral tones are seen such as undecided greens and blues and reds that look faded by the sun, bright and showy colors enjoy, nevertheless, their full share of favor.

They bring into use the various tones of light green, such as mignonette, Nile green, etc., and bright shades of yellow, jonquil and the different tones of yellow are as much worn as red.

Red was first seen in the latter part of the winter on bonnets, and now the fashion has extended to its use to dresses.

Old mauve is unquestionably gaining ground both for bonnets and toilets. For skirts and waists it is employed under lace or some materials in open work.

A number of small garments already described are lined with mauve silk. When the mantles are of some transparent tissue, forming, for instance, an even net work, the effect of this colored lining is most attractive, as the two materials have the appearance of one.

Gleanings.

New York Journal: It was Sir Walter Scott who invented the stag party. His beautiful line, "The stag at eve had drunk his fill" did it.

Tid-Bits: Daughter—"Wasn't Julius Cæsar one of the strongest men that ever lived, pa?" Father—"What makes you ask that question?" Daughter—"I was just reading that he threw a bridge over the Rhine."

Rambler: He was Experienced: Young Smallwage—I desire to purchase a ring for my fiance. Obliging Dealer—Yes; how long have you been engaged? Young S.—Nearly three years, sir. Obliging Dealer (to clerk)—Ah, yes; James, show this young man some of those imitation garnets.

Medical.

PURE BLOOD IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood, thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

SCROFULA.

135 HOWARD STREET, LOWELL, MASS., Jan. 17.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in my family for scrofulous humor with wonderful success, and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours, (Coburn Shuttle Co.). C. C. PICKERING.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

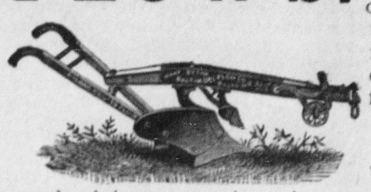
Farm Implements, and Fertilizers.

FARMERS SUPPLIES!

PLOWS.



Thorough plowing and pulverization of the soil is the foundation upon which the successful farmer builds his prosperity. To accomplish this, the character of the plow becomes a matter of the first importance. We present the

to our farmer friends with the assurance that it is not a new invention; nevertheless, it embodies all the improvements known to plow manufacturers. It has an established and enviable reputation, of MANY YEARS STANDING, as being the best bevel land side plow now in use. We assure our friends that a BEVEL LAND SIDE PLOW is superior to any straight land side plow.

The ROLAND CHILLED PLOW is manufactured of the best material, and is of the most perfect workmanship. The parts subject to wear are so chilled as to give strength as well as durability.

Its construction warrants light draft, and it runs so steady that a boy who can drive the team can man the plow—either for two or three horses—and execute the best mechanical plowing.

It will clean or scour in any soil from the start. It is furnished with solid or slip-pointed shares for ordinary or deep plowing. It is equally a successful plow in soft, hard or gravelly soil, and will turn a furrow up hill as complete as on the level ground.

We invite a critical examination of the construction of this plow as well as a thorough test in plowing.

We offer it for sale at remarkably low prices, and on liberal terms.

We keep a stock of shares and other parts for the OLIVER and SYRACUSE Chilled Plows.

CULTIVATORS.

are the farmers favorite, and need no commendation from us. We are the authorized agents for their sale in this part of Centre county. The CHAMPION is the new Hench walking cultivator, a remarkably neat and well constructed implement, and is a credit to the skill and workmanship of these leading cultivator manufacturers. We invite those in want of cultivators to inspect those on exhibition at our store. We can assure our friends that there are no other cultivators in the market equal to the HENCH.

One-horse Cultivators and Shovel Plows that defy competition in prices.

HAY RAKES.

We are selling the

CHAMPION

horse hay rake for $16.50, and a better rake for $17.50. We sell the hay rake, which is the best hay rake in the world, at astonishingly low prices.

TIGER SELF-DUMP

HAY TEDDERS.

The large crop of grass now growing, will be hard to handle unless farmers use hay tedders. The

BURDICK

HAY TEDDER is the BEST.

HAY FORKS! Double Harpoon Hay Forks. Price, $1.25 each.

GRAIN DRILLS.

We are the authorized agents for the sale of the CHAMPION and PENNSYLVANIA GRAIN DRILLS. These drills are complete in construction, and are guaranteed to sow grain, seed and fertilizers in the best farmer-like manner. We are prepared to furnish these drills at prices which will justify farmers in buying them. Farmers in want of drills will promote their interests by calling on us and examine the drills and prices for themselves.

Buggies and Platform Spring Wagons.

A customer after examining our spring wagons, a few days ago, said we had the best wagons for the least money he had seen in Centre county.

Auburn Road and Farm Wagons.

These wagons are made to our order, with steel skeins or steel axles, and we offer them to our customers with full confidence that they are the best wagons ever sold in this vicinity.

Fruit Evaporators. The outlook for a large crop of good fruit is very favorable. A fruit evaporator does not cost so much money, nevertheless, it can be made more profitable than a cider mill. An elegant opportunity for families of two or three boys to learn a new business and make some money. Call and examine the sample at our store.

FERTILIZERS.

We sell six grades of fertilizers; we assure the farmers of Centre county that we deal in no shoddy goods. In purchasing, the quality is our first consideration and we guarantee every grade of fertilizer we sell is of the quality represented.

CROCKERS' BUFFALO HONEST FERTILIZER

of which we are Sole Agents in this territory, needs no commendation at our hands. It has always realized to the farmer a fair equivalent for the money invested.

In addition to the above we have arranged for the balance of our stock with the Chemical Co. of Canton, located in a suburb of the city of Baltimore, Md.

This company is composed of the Bakers of Baltimore, who formerly conducted the business in their own name and is a house of undoubted reputation for furnishing exactly what they represent.

From this company we obtain five grades of fertilizers—

Dissolved South Carolina Bone,
Dissolved South Carolina Bone and Potash,
Soluable Alkaline Bone Phosphate,
Resurgam Guano and Bakers Standard Guano;

either of which is of the highest standard of quality in its class.

We sold this brand of DISSOLVED SOUTH CAROLINA BONE or ROCK in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania State College last fall—1885—in competition with two other brands, all of which were analyzed at that institution. The Rock we sold proved to be fifty eight cents per ton more valuable than one of its competitors, and four dollars and forty eight cents per ton more valuable than the other, all of which were sold to the farmers at about the same price. This fact should induce farmers to buy fertilizers from dealers who know what they are selling and have the common honesty to sell what they represent.

We invite a careful inspection of the quality of the fertilizers we offer for sale, as well as the prices of the same, including such information as we are always prepared to furnish thereto.

HYDHAULIC CEMENT.

We have been induced to enter into the cement business, for the reason that MR. WILLIAM SHORTLIDGE'S long connection with the Water Works of Bellefonte gave him an extended opportunity to see the effects of using poor and standard cements. We can assure our customers that the cements in which we deal are of uniform quality and of the highest standard of excellence.

We carry a stock of AKRON, ROSENDALE "Hoffman Brand," and the ENGLISH PORTLAND.

The AKRON has been manufactured during the last 60 years and has been used in the construction of some of the most elaborate Railroad bridges and reservoirs in the United States. Thomas Collins, the well known railroad contractor, informs us that he has used thousands of barrels of it, who recommends it as being a most excellent article. The AKRON cement is being used in the construction of the Croton aequeduct, which will convey water forty two miles to the city of New York. This of itself, is a sufficient guarantee of its superior quality.

We sell the ROSENDALE cement "Hoffman Brand," which is so well known that it needs no commendation at our hands. We keep in stock the ENGLISH PORTLAND cement, the best artificial cement in the world.

We exercise our best judgment in purchasing stock, and spare no efforts to furnish what we represent and trust the community will appreciate our motives by favoring us with a share of their patronage.

There is a growing practice of venders calling on farmers to sell them their supplies, who succeed in obtaining higher prices for what they sell, with dinner and horse feed thrown in, than the same articles can be purchased of us at our store. We invite farmers to investigate this matter, examine articles and prices before making up their minds to purchase. Visitors are ALWAYS WELCOME whether they buy or not, and WE TAKE PLEASURE IN EXHIBITING WHAT WE HAVE TO SELL.

Strike on the Lake Shore Railroad.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 23.—Lake Shore switchmen employed at the union stock yards quit work this afternoon owing to the railroad company discharging eight non-union men. The Lake Shore is refusing to accept any more live stock over its road. The switchmen at Englewood and all along the line in the city joined the strikers. About three o'clock an effort was made to move a train at Forty-third street. Suddenly a mob appeared upon the scene, the members of which tried, by throwing the switch, to ditch the engine and train, and did succeed in getting the caboose off the track.

Separate sections of the mob attacked the trainmen, throwing coupling-pins at them and kicking and pounding them. The conductor, Charles Pease, was badly injured, being knocked down and kicked by half a dozen assailants. John Berger, a switchman, is also hurt, but how seriously is not known. The engineer and fireman escaped entirely. No arrests were made. The night switchmen unanimously failed to put in an appearance for duty.

The switchmen held a meeting to-night and afterwards said they had determined to stand by each other and fight the issue through. Now that they had committed themselves they declare that there will be no compromise and that they propose to make the company come to terms. The opinion is expressed by the strikers that the company must either discharge the eight non-union men or all the strikers. The officials declare positively that they will not do the former and in the latter event it is stated that freight handlers may become involved.

The Princes must Go.

PARIS, June 23.—In accordance with the bill passed by the senate and chamber of deputies, providing for the expulsion of the French princes, a decree was promulgated at 3 o'clock this afternoon ordering them to leave France forthwith. Three of the princes leave to-night. The royalist senators and deputies to-day awaited in a body on the Comte de Paris, at his residence, the Chateau d'Eu, extended their sympathies and took formal leave of the comte. The principal ground of complaint against the Comte de Paris, who in his own person unites the pretensions of both the Orleanist and Bourbon families to the throne of France, grew out of an incident which happened at the fete given by him, at the time of the recent departure of his daughter, the Princess Athelie, for Lisbon, where she was married to the crown prince of Portugal.

To this fete were invited all the embassadars accredited to Paris, the comte acting in this matter as if he were a reigning sovereign instead of a simple citizen. The embassadors refused to attend the reception, at which 3,000 guests were entertained. Besides his recent connection by marriage with the royal family of Portugal, the comte formed one with the reigning house of Denmark only a few months ago. It is charged against him, moreover, that he recently organized societies for advancing the interest of the French monarchists, while nominally organizing committees on agriculture in various departments.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The president to day sent to Congress seven vetoes, all the vetoed measures being private pension bills which orginated in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The following fourth-class postoffices will be raised to the Presidential class, July 1: Brynmawr, Pa.; Sharpsburg, Pa.

A Democratic caucus been called for to-morrow night.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—"The House remained," as one of the members characterized it, "in a state of innocuous desuetude until 5 o'clock, when it adjourned It is understood that the proposed change of rules will not be called up for consideration to-morrow, but the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill will be accorded the right of way. Hawley's motion to reconsider the vote by which the Railroad Attorneys' bill was passed was carried by a vote of 31 to 21, and was subsequently refused by the Judiciary Committee.

Judge Stanley Mathews Married.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Judge Stanley Mathews was married this morning to Mrs. Mary K. Theaker, of Cleveland, O. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's cousin, Mr. Charles Parson, Jr., in this city. The Rev. William R. Paxton, of Princeton, N. J., officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Richard D. Harlen, of the First Presbyterian church here. There were about fifty relatives and friends present.

Among them were the two sons and two brothers of the bridegroom, Mr. Mortimer and Mr. Harry Mathews; Justice Blatchford, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. McCormick, Judge Steven Bourk, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Joseph Vilas, of Wisconsin. To-morrow the bridal pair leave for Europe on the steamer Celtic.

Terrible Storms in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 24.—Storms of great violence have been quite prevalent of late through Minnesota, and reports come in almost daily. Yesterday at Shakopee, a heavy thunder storm accompanied by destructive hail, passed over the northwestern portion of Eden, Prairie township. The corn crop suffered the most, and was cut into shreds. The wheat appeared to be beaten into the ground and lay perfectly flat. At Hutchinson a tornado struck the ground three-quarters of a mile northwest of the village, moving northeasterly. Trees a foot in diameter were twisted off, and fence rails and posts taken up and carried away. No fatalities are reported.

At Winona there was a severe thunder storm. Rain fell in torrents and an ominous cloud enveloped the city. Stephen Kropedoski, aged 21 years, was struck by lightning. The bolt struck his head, burning the hair completely off one side and blackening his face and neck. He died in a few moments. The lightning also struck a tree in front of W. Schroeder's residence. Balls of fire rolled from the tree to the house, and Mrs. Schroeder fell senseless. She will recover. Another bolt struck a cottonwood tree in front of C. H. Spencer's residence on Centre street, and stunned his little boy, but not seriously injuring him.

Reported Death of P. T. Barnum.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—It is reported that P. T. Barnum, the showman, is dead. No particulars.

Wholesale Discharge of Clerks.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—To-day special notice was issued by the general superintendent of the railway mail service removing twenty-nine clerks from the service for insubordination in conspiring to obstruct the regulation of the service of the department and to injure its efficiency. He says: "They have secretly attempted to form an association with a view to dictate action to the department, and many of them have also been guilty of deception towards their fellow clerks by representing the purpose of such association to be merely benevolent, and thus entangling them. At the same time the postmaster general directs me to express his gratification that so few, comparatively, could be found to engage in such a scheme, and tenders his acknowledgements to those who have kept the department informed." The clerks were all employed west of Pittsburg.

They Want the Bodies.

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Governor Pattison has received a petition from the relatives and friends of the miners buried in the colliery at Nanticoke praying him to use his influence to induce the owners of the mine to resume the search for the bodies. They say that there may be a possibility of some of the victims being yet alive, but at any rate they want them delivered and buried in consecrated ground. They further state that the company has not done its duty in regard to the digging out of the unfortunates, and they beseech the governor induce Superintendent D Morgan, of Nanticoke, to make the most strenuous efforts to recover their bodies whether alive or dead.

The petitioners also state that the company, especially the superintendent, showed an indifference in this matter which verges on heartlessness. They finally entreat the governor to cause a commission to be at once appointed to investigate the matter and report the results of the investigation. Governor Pattison has written to Inspector of Mines Williams, at Wilkesbarre, requesting him to make an investigation into the matter of the petition and report thereon.

The President Attacked.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—While the house was considering pension bills this evening Gibson, of West Virginia, criticised several reports submitted by the committee on invalid pensions and stated that he would raise the point of no quorum upon a certain measure. Thereupon Bayne, of Pennsylvania, rose and attacked the president for his recent messages on pension bills. He was astonished at the vetoes. "In the whole history of the Republic they were without a parallel. Austere and rigorous Andrew Jackson, desirous of asserting his power and making his individuality conspicuous, had never monopolized the power as the present president had done with reference to pension bills. It was the fault of men endowed with brief authority to arrogate knowledge that they did not possess. He was no better than any other. He was no better than any American citizen and he, by God, was not the equal of any man who perilled his life and went to save the union." [Applause on the republican side.]

Matson, of Indiana, defended the president, who he declared was fair and just, and prompted by his conscientious convictions. "Two men might honestly differ upon a question and that was all there was in this talk. All the gentleman had said in any of the abuse of the president was uncalled for. The president was an honest man and the people of the country knew it." [Applause on the Democratic side and in the galleries.] He was president of the United States and was called upon in the exercise of his high office to take the grave responsibility of approving or vetoing bills and when he did it honestly, though he (Matson) might differ from his views, he would not abuse him and the gentleman from Pennsylvania could make no more capital out of abusing him than he had made out of abusing his own president, Mr. Arthur.

The discussion continued at some length, the president's action and the conduct of the pension bureau under Commissioner Black coming in for criticism and defense, and then without transacting any business the house adjourned.

Briefs.

PITTSBURG, June 24.—The joint committee of manufacturers and nailers adjourned last evening without reaching a satisfactory result, and for the present negotiations are off. The indications are if the scale is not signed on or before July 1 all the Amalgamated members in the mills where nails are manufactured, estimated at five thousand, will strike.

MILWAUKEE, June 24.—The jury in the cases of the anarchists John Protzman and Herman Lampel brought in a verdict of guilty as to the former and not guilty as to the latter.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24.—Columbia defeated the University of Pennsylvania to-day in a four-oared race by forty seconds.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 24.—W. S. P. Caldwell, aged 68, died of pneumonia this morning at 11 o'clock. The pneumonia was the result of his being struck in the breast with a base ball last month.

WATERVILLE, Me., June 23.—Eleven men in the employ of Northern & Purinton, partook of hash for breakfast yesterday, and were suddenly prostrated with violent purging and vomiting, exhibiting strong symptoms of poisoning. Their recovery seems doubtful.

PRAGUE, June 23.—A terrible disaster occured on the Sazawa river, near this place, to-day. A ferryboat loaded with passengers was crossing the river, when it suddenly and without any warning capsized, precipitating fifty persons into the water. Nearly all were drowned. Twenty five dead bodies have thus far been recovered.

What the Knights Want.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The committee of the Knights of Labor appointed at the Cleveland, Ohio, meeting have written to Speaker Carlisle, enclosing a number of petitions asking congress to pass certain laws to carry out the principals laid down in their platform. They say they expect to be able in a few days to present petitions with the endorsements of at least five hundred thousand signatures. The following is a brief summary of the petition: They ask the passage of house bill No. 7,887, repealing the timber culture, pre emption and desert lands acts; house bill No. 8,021, for the adjustment of railroad and other land grants, the conditions of which have not been strictly complied with; house bill organizing the territory of Oklahama; senate bill opening a portion of the great Sioux reservation to settlement; the bill prohibiting aliens from holding land in the United States; the bill making the presidential and congressional election days holidays and punishing bribery: the bill directing disbursement of at least two huudred million dollars of the treasury surplus and substituting treasury notes for bank notes.

Through our luxurious and perverted modes of living, and from a score of causes besides, diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs are now among the most common and fatal in this country. Men suffer from them most frequently and most intensely. Their victims are falling by the wayside of life every day. Do you fear this end for yourself? If so, we can assure you of help by means of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy."

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—Plenty of rain this season.

—Lock Haven is to have a nail mill.

—Hurry up your Sunday-school picnic.

—So far as Nature is concerned, she is looking her loveliest.

—The noise of the fire cracker has not yet been heard in Bellefonte.

—Nelson Curner was quite severely cut while at work in the glass works on Wednesday, June 23.

—The lively toot of the iron horse can now be heard about seven miles up the Buffalo Run Valley.

—Mrs. Condo, of Chicago, Ill., is a guest at the home of her father, Sheriff Musser, of Millheim.

—The wet weather has had a demoralizing effect on strawberries which have become suddenly scarce.

—W. H. Smith, of near Millheim, has a field of wheat the stalks of which average about 6½ feet in length.

—Musser's foundry at Millheim, will soon be put in operation with Messrs. F. Knarr and D. Luse, proprietors.

—Chas. R. Kurtz, son of editor Fred. Kurtz, of Centre Hall, graduated last week from Lewisburg University.

—We are pleased to notice that John Rankin, son of Joseph A. Rankin, is out again after an illness of about two weeks.

—Three of the school houses of Haines township, are to be supplied with new furniture before the next term of school begins.

—Millheim will celebrate the Fourth of July with a general display of fireworks, all the citizens contributing to one common fund for that purpose.

—Will the Democrat please inform an anxious public what it means by "land shakes?" Surely, there have been no earthquakes in this part of the world.

—It is reported from over the mountain that the Hon. Leonard Rhone is not much concerned about the condition of his political fences. Ha, ha! that's good.

—While Miss Dawson and Miss Hamilton, of this place, were in Milesburg on Thursday, they did not forget to have their pictures taken by the new photographer of that town.

—Among the numerous orders for nails received by the nail company in this place are a number from China, showing that the Celestials know a good nail when they see it.

—Mr. James Tuttle, while at work in the woods, near Snow Shoe, on Saturday, the 19th, had his leg badly crushed by a falling tree. He is now in Philipsburg under medical treatment.

—Objects of considerable interest are beautiful twin calves, born on Tuesday of last week and owned by Major H. H. Benner, of East High street. Many people visit his stable to look at the young animals.

—The porch in front of Dr. R. L. Dartt's residence again presents an attractive appearance, a climbing rose bush and two vines being in blossom. The vine covered with purple blossoms is the handsomest.

—The Democrat admits that Policeman Joshua Folk "got even" with the "fruit agent" and then asks us to defend him. If he "got even" with him, man, that's all the defense he needs. Talk sense, young man, and print news.

—Some of the window sills in Humes' Hall, on Thursday evening, were covered with dust and dirt to the depth of at least an inch. Fortunately, however, the room was not so crowded that any one had to resort to a seat in the windows.

—The Methodist Sunday-school expect to hold a basket picnic some time in the near future. It will probably assume the character of a delightful excursion to some interesting point along the Lemont railroad. People will look forward to it with interest.

—Rev. E. A. Truxal, of Irwin Station, Pa., who has accepted the pastorate of the Bellefonte Reformed Church, is expected in Bellefonte about the 1st of July. His family numbers about five persons. He is a pleasant gentleman socially, and will be accorded an enthusiastic welcome.

—The Scotia ore mines are being operated at their fullest capacity and large shipments are made daily. The ore is said to be the best in the country for use in the Bessemer proocss and at least one-seventh of the ore used by the company operating the Bessemer process is procured from Scotia.

—An application has been made for a charter of incorporation for "The Bellefonte Iron Company," under which name, style and title the company which purchases Valentine's ore properties will transact business. The gentlemen associated in the company are Samuel Dickson, Israel W. Morris, B. K. Jamison, Edmund Blanchard, C. A. Mayer and E. M. Blanchard.

—Occupying a position in front of Miss Alpha Corman's store is the handsomest cactus plant we have seen. It is now covered with a hundred or more brilliant blossoms in all stages of development from the opening bud to the full-blown flower, and even those that are closing their petals to disappear forever. It is a glorious object, such as art can never hope to imitate, much less equal.

The Oratorio Concert.

Much as public expectation has looked forward to the oratorio concert as the musical event par excellence of the season, we believe we can safely say that the entertainment Thursday evening far exceeded such anticipation, and we shall be pardoned if we devote considerable space to it.

The stage was enlarged for the occasion and made spacious enough to contain the orchestra, quartettes and a chorus of perhaps forty voices. Around the front of the stage was banked a dense mass of laurel which produced a good effect and afforded an admirable setting for the grouping of singers and background of scenery. Above the stage was suspended a floral harp. This was indeed artistic.

Part first of the programme was varied. We shall allude to each number briefly. The overture by the orchestra was a fitting introduction and the octette of male voices which followed was rendered in a manner certainly not excelled in recent years in Bellefonte. The voices blended beautifully and in some respects this may be denominated the artistic success of the evening.

In the piano solo, "Troisieme Meditation," Miss Theresa Hibler attested the fact that our neighboring town of Milesburg contains superior musical culture. While the young lady manipulated the keys the air seemed to be tremulous with music.

By request, Mrs. Geo. P. Bible and Miss Mary Bradley (musical sisters of whom Bellefonte is very proud) repeated the delicious, soul-inspiring solo, "Stars of the Summer Night," which they had rendered at a former entertainment. It produced the usual effect. The audience was thoroughly en rapport and applauded for an encore, but received only a sweet courtesy in acknowledgement. Miss Sallie Hoffer presided at the piano for this accompaniment as also for several succeeding numbers and evinced that perfect taste which marks all her performances.

In his inimitable manner, Prof. L. M. Meyer rendered a comic song, "Doodle de-doo." It was all about a bird with a long tail which became the prey, tail and all, of an audacious Thomas cat. The Professor enunciates so distinctly and sings with such great earnestness as to cause paroxyisms of mirth while he is apparently oblivious of the humor he is producing. If the Professor had not reappeared to sing the two final verses of this the audience would certainly, have made a raid en masse behind thescenes and compelled him to come forth. In Mr. Bierly's magic touch of the violin in Donnizetti's "Lacrezia Borgi," we imagined that we could detect traces of the skill even of a Camilla Urso or an Ole Bull. All the admirable qualities of Prof. H. S. Whiteman's cultivated voice were displayed in the solo "The Raft," by Pinsuti. The soprano solo, 'When Sparrows Build,' was rendered by Miss Mary Bradley, and Prof. Lowell M. Meyer concluded part I with a comic selection.

The scene on the stage during the rendition of the oratorio was animating. As Prof. Bierly took his position before the class in the capacity of an impresario one could almost imagine a Theodore Thomas. Every movement was watched and obeyed by soloists, chorus and instrumentalists and the result was a production of this grand composition which, for smoothness and artistic effect, is not excelled among professionals in large cities.

Quartette A was composed of Miss Mary Bradley, soprano; Mrs. Geo. P. Bible, contralto; Mr. A. Lukenbach, tenor; and Mr. J. C. Meyer, bass. The excellence of these singers is well known and has been tested on many occasions. Quartette B was made up of Miss Fannie Twitmire, soprano; Mrs. S. A. Stover, contralto; Mr. S. A. Stover, tenor; and Mr. W. R. Leathers, bass. While all these sang well, we believe that Miss Twitmire surprised the audience by the ease with which she sang the most difficult notes and the flexibility of her fresh, young voice. Perhaps she is the coming vocalist.

Three Deaths.

Three deaths which have recently occurred in this county and were not announced in this paper at the time, are the following:

Mrs. Sarah Brumgart, wife of Martin Brumgart, of Zion. In addition to the mourning husband, three daughters and a son—all residents of this county—survive, and will greatly feel the loss of one who was very dear to them.

William Pennington, of Hublersburg, died on Thursday, June 17th., at the age of 79 years. Like a sheaf of wheat, fully ripe, he has been gathered in by the great reaper, Death.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Williams, of Marsha Furnace, are mourning the death of a son, Samuel Scott Williams, aged 15 years, 9 months and 7 days. It is sad, indeed, to hear of the death of a young man at the age when the future appears so glorious and promising. But the mortal has put on the immortality of perpetual youth.

—The Daily News don't often make a mistake, but when it does it is amusing to see the error copied with such faithful accuracy as was the case in a personal item which appeared in both of the weekly papers issued Friday morning. It shows where these papers obtain the news.

Tribute to the Late Mrs. Sarah Ann Stevens.

STEVENS.—On the 19th day of June, 1886, Mrs. Sarah Ann Stevens, wife of J. T. Stevens, died at her home in Bellefonte. She was 58 years of age.

God, in His great wisdom, has seen fit to take away from among us one so loving, so gentle and so affectionate.

She was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church for about forty years, and the fortitude with which she bore her suffering evinced the truth that she had not served the Lord all these years in vain. Her sweet and unselfish disposition won her many friends who will always bear her in kind remembrance. As a wife she was always obedient and affectionate; as a mother, kind, gentle and patient.

She was a kind and accommodating neighbor, known only to be loved and endeared by all. During all her long illness she was perfectly resigned; without a murmur or complaint she committed herself to the will of God, and when her Master called was ready and willing to go. In one place above all others in the universe she will be most sadly missed—in her home—for what is home without a mother? Her friendly face will not be there and her chair will be vacant.

She leaves a husband and five children to mourn her departure. We will try to resign our wills to that of Him who doth all things well, and feel that our loss is her eternal gain. But we sympathize with her bereaved friends, for she has left many an aching heart. We have the consoling thought that although she cannot come to us we can go to her. Then let us rejoice that she now enjoys the world where love and praise are complete.

Funeral services were held in the M. E. Church Sunday afternoon and her remains were interred in the Union Cemetery, there to await the resurrection morn. Peace to her ashes. K. B.

Treat Walker Township Fair.

The appeal for Walker township being over, and only a few special reductions having been made, we feel like saying something in behalf of the real estate owners of Walker township, for they have been unjustly dealt with. When the commissioners were appealed to for redress by the people of Walker township they were told to go to their assessors. The gentlemen who acted in that capacity in the above-named district this year discharged their duties very creditably and according to law. But the land owners of that part of Nittany valley would at least like to have some show of equality. While in Miles township the land is assessed at seventeen dollars per acre, that of Walker is thirty-eight. Well, everybody who knows the difference between Nittany and Brush valleys knows that the difference in valuation of land should be in favor of Nittany Valley as much less than that of Brush. In our opinion the land of Walker township should be assessed at about half as much as that of Brush Valley. What the people of Walker township want is equalization. They don't blame their worthy assessors, but they would like to see Miles township pay her share of taxes. If this were done then the Democrats of Walker township would not be telling everybody that Commissioner Wolf likes to favor the people of his own township and that Mr. J. Griest did not get a vote in Walker township the last time he was elected. The injustice exhibited by these two commissioners looks as though Mr. Wolf would like another term and as though Mr. Griest was mad.

Visit to Penn Cave.

On Tuesday, the 22d., inst. a party of young people of this place and a few strangers, went to Penn Cave. The conveyance used was the large, roomy hack and Abe Baum officiated as driver, handling the reins skillfully and making his two spirited steeds do not only their level best, but also their up-hill and down-hill best. The ride over Nittany's lofty height was duly enjoyed, and at length the great natural curiosity was reached.

The day was spent in exploring its deep recesses and gloomy depths, its curious stalactites and stalagmites, and also in enjoying the beauty of the surrounding country. The high hills with verdure clad, the broad expanse of green field and the shady groves which dot it here and there. The repast which constituted their mid-day meal was appreciatingly partaken of. In the dewy eve they returned home down the mountain, after one of the most enjoyable days in their history. Six young ladies and an equal number of young gentlemen constituted the party, viz., Miss Owens and Miss Mosser, of Mechanicsburg, who are guests of Mrs. Woodcock; Misses Aultz and Flynn, of Tyrone; Misses Emma Montgomery Stella Armor, Carrie Orvis, Jennie Crittenden and Rebie Garman; and Messrs. Irv Speer, Will Brew, Frank Lukenbach, Will Garman, Lewis McQuistion, Jerome Harper, George Meek and George Bayard.

—It will be observed by subscribers on the South route that Mr. Will Bartley, the poet carrier of the Daily News, has been succeeded by his bright faced younger brother, Master Robert Bartley. Will was a first-class carrier, but now he has turned his attention to something else—probably helping his father at carpentering. We predict that Robert will carry the Daily News just as carefully and satisfactorily

Fourth of July Excursions via Pennsylvania Railroad.

In pursuance of its usual custom the Pennsylvania Railroad will sell excursion tickets between all principal stations on its owned, operated and leased lines, on July 2d, 3d, and 5th, good to return until 6th, at greatly reduced rates. By this arrangement the great national holiday may be spent in visiting friends, or in making pleasant excursions to some of the many points of interest located on the company's lines. The intervention of Sunday gives an additional day to those whose time is occupied by business, and this with the liberal limit of the excursion tickets, affords opportunity for the enjoyment of a nice holiday trip.

—Two of the school committeemen of Lock Haven got into a fierce argument. One said that a man sits down, while the other was equally sure that he sets down. Seeing that there was no hope of coming to an argeement, they decided to leave it to the chairman of the board. That dignitary heard the arguments advanced on either side. He then hemmed three times, swallowed his Adam's apple twice, inflated his chest till he looked like a pouter pigeon, and delivered himself thus: "Gentlemen, you are both wrong. You don't say a man sits down, nor sets down; you say he sot down. And now let us go on with the examination of applicants for the high school. They've got to be mighty spry if they pass my catechising."

—On Tuesday evening, June 22, the following teachers were elected by the school board to teach in the schools of this place: Principal, Prof. D. M. Lieb; Asst. Principal and teacher in High School, Prof. D. O. Etters; Assistant in High School, Elma Reed; Senior Grammar, Sallie A. Meek; Junior Grammar, Kate F. Hewes; First Intermediate, Lizzie Shortlidge; Second Intermediate, Carrie E. Humes; Third Intermediate, Bella K. Rankin; First Primary, Annie McAffery; Second Primary, Clara Strickland; Third Primary, Kate M. Powers; Fourth Primary, Carrie Weaver; No. 13, Prof. J Milton Furey.

—The supposition in regard to the drowning of the little 6-year-old son of Mr. Valentine Buck, of Clearfield township, Cambria county, whose mysterious disappearance from home on last Sunday evening was noted in several newspapers, has been only too sadly realized. The dead body of the little unfortunate was found in Chest creek, nearly two miles from home, on the second evening after his disappearance, and the presumption is that while playing along the bank of the stream he accidentally fell in and was drowned, there being no one near to rescue him. He is said to have been subject to epileptic fits, and if this be true he may have been so afflicted when he met his sad fate.

—The Altoona Tribune, Friday morning said: "It has been discovered that Jacob Reinfelt, of Philipsburg, who died suddenly some weeks ago, leaving a widow, had also a wife and five destitute children in Galizier, Austria, as well as a grown up daughter who has been living in Houtzdale under an assumed name for a year or more The deceased left an estate valued at $6,000 or $10,000 which the daughter is now claiming for her mother in Austria."

Good Results in Every Case.

D. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn, writes, that he was seriously afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs: had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all coughs and colds with the best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this wonderful Discovery.

Trial Bottles free at J. Zeller & Son's drug store.

—It is bad enough for men to play cards and gamble at any time, but when boys get so depraved as to resort to the hillsides on this purpose on Sunday, there is a looseness about society which should be remedied. We are told that on Sunday boys are accustomed to resort to places on Half Moon hill and doubtless to other spots in this locality to engage in card playing and gambling. The Law and Order League might inquire into this condition of affairs and stop the practice.

To restore sense of taste, smell or hearing use Ely's Cream Balm. It cures all cases of Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds in the Head, Headache and Deafness. It is doing wonderful work. Do not fail to procure a bottle, as in it lies the relief you seek. It is easily applied with the finger. Price 50c. at druggists.

Mr. P. M. Barber, has used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh in his family and commends it very highly. A lady is recovering the sense of smell. A Tunkhannock lawyer, known to many of our readers, says he was cured of deafness.—Pittston, Pa., Gazette.

Free Press: A Burlington youth obtained a young lady's hand in rather an unfair manner. She was trying to climb up a ledge at a picnic when he asked her for it.

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years: my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by J. Zeller & Son.

Wives! Mothers! Daughters!

Be Your Own Physician! A lady who was for years a sufferer from Female Complaints and weaknesses, so common to her sex, and despaired of being cured, finally found remedies which completely cured her, after all else had failed. —The oratorio concert on Friday evening was a greater success, artistically, than on the previous evening. The audience, however, was surprisingly small.

You have often Seen Women with marked blueness or paleness of face, vitalized appetites, and a craving for unwholesome food. These are signs of a disordered liver, and the trouble must be corrected or worse results are sure to follow. Husbands and fathers cannot afford to treat this matter lightly. Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," which dispels liver disease, costs less than sick wives and daughters. You will find it a very profitable investment.

—Please build new walks along Howard street between Allegheny and Spring streets. It is dangerous to life to walk along that thoroughfare.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its merits. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every house-owner, it might not be necessary to make an "extraordinary offer" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $100 to $200 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, above all expenses, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 above all expenses, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money. Renner Manufacturing Co., 116 Smithfield St., Pittsburg, Pa.

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

FEARFULLY COMMON.

Kidney Complaints Among Both Sexes and All Ages A Brilliant Recovery.

There is something startling in the rapid increase of kidney diseases among the American people within a few years past. Many causes peculiar to certain classes tend to produce and aggravate these troubles—as, for example, careless living, overwork and exposure. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., is often congratulated on the exceptional success of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy" in arresting and radically curing these most painful and dangerous disorders. Proofs of this, like the following, are constantly brought to his attention, and are published by him for the sake of thousands of other sufferers whom he desires to reach and benefit. The letter, therefore, may be of vital importance to you or to some one whom you know. It is from one of the best known and popular druggists in the fine and growing city from which he writes, where those interested may find Mr Crawford at his place of business on the corner of Main and Union streets:

Springfield, Mass., March 22, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

Dear Sir: For ten years I had been afflicted with kidney disease in its most acute form. What I suffered must be left to the imagination, for no one can appreciate it only those who have gone through it. I resorted to many physicians and to many different kinds of treatment, and spent a great deal of money, only to find myself older and worse than ever. I may say that I used twenty-five bottles of a preparation widely advertised as a specific for this precise sort of troubles, and found it entirely useless—at least in my case. Your "FAVORITE REMEDY"—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me besides—is the only thing that did me the slightest good, and I am happy to admit it gave me permanent relief. I have recommended "FAVORITE REMEDY" to many people for kidney disease, and they all agree with me in saying that DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY has not its equal in the wide world for this distressing and often fatal complaint. Use this letter as you deem best for the benefit of others. Yours, &c.,

LYMAN CRAWFORD.

Rogers' Grapoline!

This preparation is a mild and gentle saline cathartic, alterative and tonic. It is most carefully prepared in the form of a snow white powder, containing all the medical properties of the GRAPE and other fruits. It will promptly cure Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Indigestion and all Inflammatory complaints where a gentle, cooling cathartic is required. Give this remedy one trial and it will convince you of the above facts. Prepared by A. H. ROGERS & CO., Geneseo, N.Y.

—Mr. Isaac Haupt brought to town from his farm, on Saturday, some specimens of grass about six feet in length.

—The private car of the President of the Wabash Railroad was attached to the 9.32 a.m. mail train Wednesday. On it were President Talmage and party.

—The Band of Hope, of Valentines' Ironworks, will hold a picnic and festival on the 3d of July. The Band of Hope is, we believe, a temperance organization.

—The work of hay-making now requires all the available force on the farm and our agricultural friends do not have an opportunity to visit town so frequently as usual.

—Did you notice A. A. Dale, Esq., on Monday? He wore the handsomest white high hat of the season and it gave the wearer quite a distinguished appearance.

—Mr. L. A. Shaffer's new residence on East Curtin street will be quite a commodious, handsome structure. The framework is now erected and the house will be completed before winter.

—Some people will be surprised next Saturday when they see what an extensive affair the Knights of Labor picnic will be. It promises to be one of the largest gatherings ever held in Bellefonte.

—The choir of the Episcopal church, as at present constituted, is by far the ablest and best in Bellefonte and on Sunday evenings renders delightful music, the equal of which is seldom heard even in concerts.

—Perhaps an unusual number of the people of this place are now "out of town," visiting friends and scenes at a distance. Many of them, when they return, will bring friends with them to add to the liveliness of the town.

—It is now fashionable to give presents to young men and maidens who graduate. We know of a young gentleman who received a gold watch and chain, thirty books and numerous other gifts on the day he delivered his graduating speech.

—The base ball nine did not go to Mill Hall Saturday, although they were expected and preparations had been made at Mill Hall for them. They give as reason for not going—prevalence of rain and the inability to induce a sufficient number to go.

—It is very delightful these mornings to look at the water of Spring creek as it falls in a glistening sheet over the artificial obstruction just a short distance south of High street. It reflects back the rays of the sun like so many diamond dew drops.

—C. L. Jones & Co., of Boston and New York, have a very novel method of advertising in towns and by so doing succeed in giving every family a trial bar of their famous Tulip Soap, free of charge. This is preparatory to introducing it to the grocers of the town.

—While the statesmen at Harrisburg are building a platform, another one for General Beaver to stand upon is being erected in Bellefonte. It is in the shape of a new stoop in front of the law office of Beaver & Gephart. Of course, it will be a solid, substantial structure.

—Talk about other industries for Centre county as much as you please, it is certain that iron manufacture is the legitimate business. If that is not carried on the citizens of this county are missing their opportunity and no other business venture can be so safe or satisfactory.

—In consequence of recent changes in the switch board in the Telephone Exchange, the service has been greatly improved. The manager here always endeavors to give the very best service and we are pleased to note that his efforts are meeting with the very best success.

—The Altoona Tribune says that a severe rain, thunder, hail, lightning and wind storm visited Huntingdon Friday afternoon about half-past 1 o'clock and lasted about twenty minutes, hail falling all this time. A house belonging to Michael Conroy was struck by lightning and the chimney demolished. Strange to relate, nothing of the sort ways seen in West Huntingdon.

—That great tree which grew near the corner of Mr. E. C. Humes' residence and which was cut down a few weeks ago had a most wonderful root. The long, strong branches of the roots reach way down deep into the earth and defy the efforts of muscle and genius to eradicate them. The work of getting this immense root out of the ground has occupied several days, and we have no doubt the labor will at length be crowned with success.

Appeals, Picnics, Concerts and other Events in Howard.

HOWARD, PA., June 28, '86.

MR. EDITOR: The county commissioners convened here at the hotel on Thursday last to attend the appeal. A great many people were here on that purpose, Some were favored and their valuation lowered, while to others great injustice was shown. We give, for example, Mr. Cornelius Leitch, who owns an old crippled gray horse not worth over one dollar, which was assessed at twenty-nine dollars. Mr. Leitch brought the horse in and showed or wanted to show him, or sell him to them for ten dollars, but they only came down nine dollars, which leaves the horse at twenty dollars. Such is life. Mr. Leitch is a poor man and a Republican.

We should say any man who would steal literature from "Gushing Tom" would savor of something worse than plagiarism. If any ism at all it would be luatism. Some one kick me, will you?

Several parties were out fishing last week in Bald Eagle creek and with very poor success.

Charles E. Neff returned home from his Western trip, as did also Jerome Antis. They say times are very dull in Michigan and Indiana. Scarcely any work can be had. Mr. Neff stays with his brother-in-law, Mr. Weirick, for the present.

Mr. John Pletcher, on Friday last, fell from a cherry tree and dislocated his arm.

A glee club is on the rise, in Howard, conducted by the Rev. H. W. Gross, which looks very much much like a success. Mr. Gross is a fine singer, and very sociable.

Miss Clara J. Kline and Miss Gardner had a picnic for their scholars on Saturday last in Mr. Butler's woods right below town. Quite a number of children and their parents were there, all enjoying themselves very much. This was the close of the schools for the season.

Great preparations are being made by the band boys of this place for their festival on the Fourth of July. They will make every effort possible towards success, and we will heartily help the boys, as they are willing and ready to help others in return. Of course, they have a few kickers, but this is necessary to make things interesting.

Rev. Shoemaker, of the M. E. church, and his son, Franklin, made a trip to Saltilo, Huntingdon county, where he owns a farm. He drove there in a buggy.

Look out for the M. E. Sunday-school concert. It will be one of the best.

On Friday evening of last week Jonathan Schenck, near Howard, gave a birthday party for Mrs. Schenck, to commemorate her 69th birthday. Quite a number of people were present, among them Mr. T. A. Lucas, Franklin Shearer, George Haines, Jr., and the Howard cornet band. It is hardly necessary to say they fared sumptuously, as the name Schenck will tell as much.

Another Indignant Republican Prohibitionist.

DAILY NEWS: There are in this county many members of the Republican party who are conscientious believers in the principles of prohibition, and yet who are desirous of the election of General Beaver from motives of personal friendship and from the belief that if elected Governor he would give his support and sanction to all measures tending to the abolition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors; but judging from the articles in the Gazette of last week their votes are not wanted. No one knows better than the friends of General Beaver that a nomination is not equivalent to an election, and unless they desire to drive away these votes from him they should place a muzzle on the liquor-seller's-son-in-law who edits the Gazette, for taking last week's issue as a sample, the Prohibition party could not have a better advocate. Republicans as a rule think for themselves and cannot be driven from their honest convictions by sneers and abuse. The subject of prohibition is attracting more and more attention every day, and very soon will be the chief issue before the country. If the Republican leaders are wise they will seize the opportunity to conciliate the large element in the party who are opposed to the liquor traffic, by incorporating in their platform a plank favoring a local option law. The time has come when this question must be fairly met both by parties and candidates. X.

It Came.

Hurlburt & Hunting's show came to town Tuesday. It was a very peculiar looking show. The part we saw arrive from the direction of Milesburg consisted of five or six dilapidated wagons, with a few attaches or performers gathered beneath the canvas covering of one of the vehicles. But the reports of some people who have seen the show are to the effect that it is really good, and it may be, as appearances, you know, are often deceptive.

The circus parade at 1 o'clock had some good features about it. Some of the horses were handsome and well trained and the dogs that rode on top the wagons showed off to good advantage, as if they are able to do some pretty wise tricks. Doubtless, the show will be worth more than the price of admission.

—We hear of the death on Monday morning of Mrs. John Pacini, of this place. Her death was caused by consumption.

Fourth of July at Gettysburg. A Grand Demonstration on the Field.

The encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and the reunion of the Third Army Corps at Gettysburg will appropriately occur on the anniversary of the great battle which was waged on the historic ground twenty-three years ago. The Pennsylvania Department of the Grand Army of the Republic encamps on the field from July 2d to 7th, and on the 2d and 3d the reunion of the Third Army Corps will be held. During the entire week ceremonies of the most interesting character will be held every day, which will be participated in by the veterans of the fight. It is expected that from five to seven thousand members of the Grand Army of the Republic will be present, including many officers who were engaged in the fight. Generals Sickles, Fitzhugh Lee, and Longstreet have accepted invitations to be present and to speak. The meeting will undoubtedly be one of the most imposing demonstrations of modern times, and will be worthy of the presence of every American citizen. To those who desire to get all the points of the battle no better opportunity will ever present itself, for in addition to the number of soldiers who were engaged in the fight there will be a large number of experienced guides who will point out to visitors every spot of interest and give all the information possible as to the events of the memorable days of the battle. For the benefit of the large number of visitors who will be drawn to Gettysburg the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all principal stations on its lines east of Pittsburg and Erie on June 30th, July 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th, good to return until the 10th inclusive, at one fare for the round trip.

Mr. Zeigler's Defense.

WINGATE, P. O. June 26, 1889.

MR. EDITOR:—Dear Sir:—Allow me through your columns to say a few words in self-defense in reply to the reflections cast upon my moral character, in the Keystone Gazette of June 25, 1886, in the article headed "Out of their Sphere." I have been an honest, outspoken Prohibitionist for the last ten years. Two years ago the use of the Hall was granted us for a similar purpose. We placed in nomination a county ticket, and no objection ever reached my ears for occupying the Hall. This year I asked, as I thought, the proper authority, in a plain, outspoken manner, answering every question I was asked concerning the same, and never for one moment thought that I was not understood. If after the grant of the Hall was made, it was discovered to have not been sufficiently understood—then I should have been notified in just as frank a manner, as I made the request. There were no personal reflections cast upon any one throughout the entire day, neither do I as yet intend to be personal. How could there be when nothing was done? Strange; that nearly four columns in a newspaper should be filled up full with nothing, "very little work." All I ask of the Gazette is to withdraw the personal stigma cast upon me, and I will charge him nothing but the same privilege that he takes in vindicating the Republican Party.

Very respectfully yours,

J. ZEIGLER.

[We believe that our excellent friend, Mr. Zeigler, has no reason to be concerned about anything the Gazette may say of him. To be sure the Gazette is like the fabled frog that fancied itself as big as an ox, but it is not at all dangerous—all wind. Mr. Zeigler is one of the best citizens in the county and could not be injured even by a more important newspaper. The Prohibition convention has a right to meet where and when it pleases.—ED.]

In the Episcopal Church.

Rev. Mr. Fleming, of Muncy, Lycoming county, assisted the rector, Rev. Jno. Robinson, at both morning and evening services on Sunday, delivering the sermon on both occasions. In the morning the text of his sermon was from Psalm 122:1, "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord." In the evening it was the first part of St. Matthew 25:14, "For the kingdom of heaven is as a man traveling into a far country." Both of these sermons were very able and instructive, edifying and delighting the congregation. Rev. Mr. Fleming is quite a young man, perhaps not more than 25 years of age. He is personally of very pleasing appearance and is endowed with robust health. His manners are graceful, self-possessed and dignified. But his chief charm is in his rich, deep, musical voice to which it is a pleasure to listen, especially as he reads the Scripture lessons for the day.

Music for the Picnic.

The bids to furnish an orchestra of five pieces of music for the Knights of Labor picnic, next Saturday, was awarded to home talent, two living in Bellefonte and the others in the immediate vicinity. The orchestra will consist of: 1st violin, Lemuel Bierley, Milesburg; 2d violin, Frank Dietrick, Hublersburg; cornet, Jacob Lyons, Bellefonte; base viol, Charles Smith, Bellefonte; organist, Prof. A. Girod, Unionville. The orchestra will meet on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Emanuel Schroyer, Milesburg, to rehearse.

—Northern lights were bright Tuesday night.

Commencement Exercises at the State College.

The largest audience that ever assembled at the State College on the first day of the commencement exercises gathered in the College chapel on Sunday afternoon to listen to the baccalaureate sermon delivered by the Rev. Wayland Hoyt, D. D., of Philadelphia.

The gentleman is one of the most prominent ministers of the Baptist church. He is an agreeable speaker and his discourse was exceedingly able, and, although quite long, lasting about an hour, it was listened to with much interest.

The subject of his remarks was "Jesus only," being the concluding words of St. Matthew 17:8, the words occuring in connection with the scene of the Transfiguration. By forcible illustration and strong argument he convinced the students of the importance to them of having a fixed, definite aim in life.

To pursue this aim safely, successfully and unfalteringly it should be subordinated to the one grand purpose of knowing "Jesus only." He, as the greatest teacher, can safely guide and control any ambition, and thus controlled, the life will be rounded, complete and beautiful.

In the audience was Gen. James A. Beaver as well as several other citizens of Bellefonte,

Rev. H. F. King, of Hollidaysburg, Penna, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, delivered the address before the Young Men's Christian Association of State College. His theme was "Self-Conquest." He described the energies men put forth to conquer material things and said that the contest with self is the most important of all and the victory gained over self is the greatest of victories. Rev. Charles Steck delivered the address Tuesday before the Washington and Cresson literary societies.

The address delivered before the two literary societies of State College in the College chapel, on Tuesday afternoon, by Rev. Chas. P. Steck, of this place, was a brilliant and scholarly effort. It was entitled "The Problem of Success," and consisted, in part, at least of extracts from his notable lecture, "The Hero, Recognized and Unrecognized." In eloquence and impressiveness of delivery it was the feature thus far of the exercises. The attendance was large.

This is a very busy part of the year with the agricultural community that surrounds the College, and this fact detracted to some extent, from the number attending the day exercises. On Tuesday evening, however, the attendance resembled that of former years. The occasion was the Junior oratorical contest, by many persons considered to be the most interesting event of the commencement exercises.

The judges chosen were Rev. H. F. King, of Hollidaysburg; Hiram Torrey, of New York city; and S. R. Downing, of Chester county.

There were three orations. The first was delivered by William F. White, of Milroy, on the subject, "The Storm-cloud of the Nineteenth Century." This was the discussion of the labor question and was quite comprehensive and thorough for a student only in his junior college year.

The second oration was a discussion of the Irish question. The oration, "Ireland's Monster Foe," afforded the speaker a fine opportunity to display powers of oratory which, with practice, will make him a future power among those with whom he lives. The young gentleman's name is William F. Strouse.

The third and last oration was given by William Penn Fisher, of Unionville, this county. It may be termed a discussion of the moral question and was entitled, "The Supremacy of Conscience." In thought, composition and delivery it excelled the others and was awarded the prize, although the others received favorable mention from the judges.

The exercises were interspersed with pleasing vocal and instrumental music.

Wednesday at 9 a. m. the artillery salute was given, and the dinner under the auspices of the alumni took place at 12 o'clock m. A train left Bellefonte at 10.30 o'clock a. m., to carry those who desired to partake of the repast and Lawyer Ray, A. J. Cook and several others who are especially happy on such occasions put bouquets in their button-holes and departed for the feast. We believe that Mr. C. G. McMillen caters, as usual, for the College, which is ample testimonial of the completeness and enjoyableness of the dinner.

Saturday's Market.

The curbstone market, Saturday, was about the best of the season. All the wagons were laden with fresh vegetables, berries, eggs and butter. New potatoes, large and shapely, were in demand at 40 cents per peck. It is early in the year for such large potatoes. The berries consisted of some very fair strawberries, blue and black huckleberries and black raspberries. Red and black cherries were plentiful and also a few white ones. Peas and lettuce still hold their own in abundance of the supply and in the good graces of the people. Those who like rhubarb pie can still find enough of the stalks to satisfy their appetite. Then there were the usual quantities of radishes, smearcase, apple butter, etc.

—People who travel say that they never before knew the country to look more beautiful than it now does.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. Chas. Pierce, who has been reading law with Judge Orvis, expects to go to Tacoma, Washington territory, during next August, where he will settle, engaging in the lumber business.

We notice that Mr. Hiram Torrey, of New York City, is at the State College. Mr. Torrey is the regular correspondent and business manager of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN in New York City and is a learned and cultivated gentleman. But just how he happened to pass through Bellefonte without making his presence known to us is mystifying.

Rev. Charles Kenny, a much respected priest of the Roman Catholic church, now located at Lykens, near Harrisburg, is visiting in Bellefonte, being called here especially to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. John Pacini which occurred this morning. Rev. Mr. Kenny was once pastor of the church here and was greatly beloved by the congregation, all of whom will be pleased to meet with him and give him a hearty welcome.

—On next Friday evening there will be a concert in the Methodist church at Milesburg. It will be given for the purpose of starting a library fund for the Sunday-school. In addition to its excellent object, the concert will be very enjoyable. There are several good singers in the Sunday-school, and a trio of male voices which the Sunday-school can produce is equal to the best. Mr. L. T. Eddy, the superintendent of the Sunday-school, is giving his attention to the preparation for the concert, which ensures its excellence. The exercises will be varied with recitations and dialogues. The admission is only 10 cents. It will be a pleasant place of resort for the evening for people of Bellefonte.

—Saturday among the arrivals at the Bush House, were several members of the syndicate who have purchased Valentines' and Thomas' ore properties and will erect a new furnace. They were Samuel Dickson, of Philadelphia; Hon. C. A. Mayer, of Lock Haven; James P. Witherow, of Pittsburg; and Mr. Stewart, of the banking house of B. K. Jamison & Co., Philadelphia. Jas. P. Witherow is a practical gentleman and will superintend the erection of the furnace As their visit here was to select the site for the furnace, the indications are that before many days the new structure will be commenced.

—We understand that the Rev. John Robinson, rector of the Episcopal church, has tendered his resignation of the rectorship, to take effect in August. This is the third time he has sent in his resignation and the vestry of the church feels compelled to accept it, though with much regret as his able administration has greatly attached him to the members of the parish. Ill health is given as his reason for desiring to sever his connection with the parish. We trust that the change which he has in view may result in benefiting him physically.

—The Mifflintown Democrat and Register asserts that there are only three kisses in the world that cannot be taken without suspicion—"the kiss the mother lightly lays upon her baby's dewy lips, the kiss the mother gives her boy as he goes forth into the world, and the kiss we press upon the still, pale lips of the dead." Oh, pshaw! young man, you don't know what you are talking about. We'll take all the kisses a pretty girl can give us ten times a day, and won't think of suspecting her sincerity.

—The persons who stole the stuffed canary bird from under the glass vase on the grave in the Union cemetery are known, and unless they at once return the same to where it was taken from, their names will be published and they arrested and prosecuted under the law for the prevention of desecrating cemeteries. The removal of flowers or any decoration from graves or lots in cemeteries is a violation of the law, and any person found guilty of such an act, is subject to fine and imprisonment.

—Fourth of July will soon be here and not one boy in a hundred has the remotest idea how fire crackers are made. Well, boys, they are made by Chinese convicts, hired by manufacturers from the Government at three cents a day, the work being done inside the prisons. The paper is made of bamboo fibre. Each cracker is filled, rolled and pasted by hand with astonishing rapidity. The powder used is equal in strength to our best blasting powder.

—Prof. Bierly, the accomplished music teacher, before leaving Bellefonte, requested us to state to the public that his stay in town has been extremely pleasant to him and he hopes it has been profitable to those with whom he came in contact. We can say of the Professor, that he is a talented and independent gentleman, painstaking and capable in all he undertakes to do, and socially very agreeable.

—Mr. John Sourbeck will make the finest display of fireworks next Saturday evening that has been seen in Bellefonte for several years. He has a number of superior pieces which he will display in front of his store, affording a fine exhibition. During the evening several balloons with fire-work attachments will be sent up.

Personal Pencilings.

Major Hilton is in Pittsburg talking on temperance.

Dr. Van Tries, of Baileyville, was in Bellefonte to-day.

Rev. Father McArdle is spending this week in Harrisburg.

Cyrus Gordon, Esq., of Clearfield, is in Bellefonte to-day.

Oscar Myers, of Milesburg, is visiting friends in Lock Haven.

Prof. Whiteman departed Saturday morning for Williamsport.

Mr. John Anderson returned from Pittsburg Friday morning.

Mr. Thomas Orbison returned home from College a few days ago.

T. R. Buddinger, of Snow Shoe, spent part of Friday in Bellefonte.

'Squire Morrison and wife are in Williamsport, visiting their daughter, Mrs. D. O. Rhen.

Mr. Jacob Heylman and his son, Harris, came home from Williamsport on Monday evening.

Mr. John Rankin, Jr., departed Friday morning for a visit among friends in Clearfield county.

Mr. John Sourbeck and his son, Fred, came home from Pittsburg on Wednesday evening, the 23d.

Miss Edith Harris, daughter of Jno. P. Harris, has returned home from Wellesley College, Massachusetts.

We notice the return home of Miss Kate Jackson, daughter of Mr. George Jackson, after several weeks absence.

Rev. D. S. Monroe, D. D., is announced to preach in the Eighth avenue Methodist church of Altoona next Sunday.

Mr. I. D. Garman departed for Philadelphia Friday morning to resume his duties in that city, after a vacation of about two weeks.

Mr. O. Wilson, the gentlemanly agent for Ullmann & Philpott, manufacturers of printing inks at Cleveland, Ohio, spent Monday night in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Thomas H. Hill, of Philadelphia, arrived on Monday evening to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Richard, on Lamb street.

Mr. Victor Maier, formerly one of the best known employes of the glass works here, and now, we believe, residing in New York State, is at present in town.

General Beaver is as cool as a cucumber and don't seem to be concerned about the fact that almost everybody in the State is talking about him at present.

Mr. Samuel Brooks, of Boiling Spring, came home on Friday after an extended business trip through the State. He will remain at home until after the Fourth.

Mr. John Fellenbaum, at his residence on Bishop street, has a cactus plant which now contains 250 buds, which will soon develop into blossoms. It will be very handsome.

Rev. H. F. King, of Hollidaysburg, was a caller at the DAILY NEWS office Wednesday. He departed on the 10.30 train for his home. On Monday he delivered an excellent address at the State College.

We had the pleasure on Tuesday of a call from Mr. Hunting, the comical clown of Hurlburt & Hunting's circus. He is a bright, animated and agreeable gentleman, as much at home out of the ring as in it. We enjoyed his call.

Roger L. Potter, of Karthaus, Clearfield county, was in Bellefonte Saturday. He is a son of Dr. Potter, of Clearfield county, who is prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

D. S. Keller, Esq., attended the meeting of the State Constitutional Temperance Amendment Society in Williamsport last week. We notice that the Hon. Charles Wolf was also there and was rather coolly treated.

J. C. Meyer, Esq., wants to be district attorney and is making rapid strides toward the attainment of this goal of his ambition. Now if the Republicans want some one who will run faster than "Cal" they must produce their best man.

Hon. John A. Woodward, of Howard, did not forget us. On the contrary he sent to us on Monday, via., Mr. Sechler, the grocer, two crates of very fine raspberries, one of black and the other of white berries. They are beauties and attest Mr. Woodward's skill as a gardener.

Mrs. Kirk, formerly Miss Johnson, of Milesburg, and Miss Poorman, cousin of E. C. Poorman, of the same place, just arrived from Michigan. We understand that Mrs. Kirk expects to remain in the East, making her home with her relatives near Milesburg, and Miss Poorman will remain a year or longer.

Prof. Bierly, the music instructor, has impressed our people with the fact that he is a thorough gentleman and a true artist. We regret to announce that he departed Saturday afternoon at 1.15 o'clock for a visit among relatives in another part of the county. It seems to us that he would be a great benefit, musically, to the town if he could remain longer.

MARRIED.

DICKERSON—KEPHART.—At Fillmore, June 18th, 1886, by Rev. W. F. D. Noble, S. K. Dickerson, of Roanoke, Va., and Emma C. Kephart, of Fillmore, Pennsylvania.

MONG—LEVER.—At Stormstown, on Thursday, June 17, 1886, by Rev. W. F. D. Noble, Mr. Elmer E. Mong, of East Freedom, Blair county, and Miss Alice W. Lever, of Stormstown, Centre county.
